MAN SLAIN, BODY IN TRUNK LYNN MYSTERY

CHILDREN FLEE FIRE IN PANIC

Rising from her bed and carrying in her weak arms her baby one week old, Mrs. Sarah Matz this afternoon fled down the fire escape to an adjoining flat roof when fire broke out in the basement of the three-story brick tenement building at No. 29 Dover street, South End. Mrs. Matz's daughter Frances, seventeen years of age, was overcome by the smoke and was carried down the stairs to the street by the firemen of Ladder 15, Warren street. She revived in the open air in a short time.

Nearly a score of children living in the other tenements of the house in wild panic fled down the stairs and out into the streets. The whole neighborhood was aroused and a great crowd gathered.

The fire started in a cobbler shop ran by Jacob Fincklemin in the basement. It evidently started from an oil stove, but just how is now known as Mr. Fincklman had gone to his lunch. The cobbler shop is at Ned 27 and the tenements overhead are No. 29 Dover street. The building is owned by A. Marnoy.

Smokes and flames spread through the house, causing consternation among the women and children in the building. The children who could run fled down the stairs choked with smoke and shrieking.

Mrs. Matz, unable to make her way through the smokey halls, climbed out to the fire escape and made her way to the adjoining roof, where she crouched till the fire was extinguished. Her daughter was little the worse for her experience. The firemen extinguished the flams and the damag is from $500 to $600 .

IVERNIA IN, AFTER PERIL OF ICEBERGS

The Cunard liner Ivernia came to port to-day, eight or nine hours late, with many distinguished people aboard. Some of her 848 passengers were very nervous during the time she picked her way through a dense fog bank with unseen icebergs near.

The presence of the bergs was made known by the fall in temperature. Timid folk feared when the bank of vapor through which the big steamship ploughed like a ghost might hide some monster berg until it was too late to avoid crashing into it. But Captain Benison and his officers were ever alert on the bridge. They brought the Ivernia through all perils safely, and although they had to slow down in the fog made Boston harbor only a few hours late.

The big fog was encountered as soon as the ship reached the Grand Banks on Saturday. It never lifted until yesterday.

There were 88 saloon, 77 second cabin and 683 steerage passengers. Among the notables in the first cabin were Miss May Van Alen, daughter of James A. Van Alen, one of the society leaders of Newport; Baron and Baroness John Ludwig Kinsky of Tunbridge Well, England, and their daughter Marie. The Baroness was Miss Emily Sargent of Worcester before she married. The family came over to visit the Sargents of Brookline.

Among the Bostonians aboard were Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. William Tudor, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Wheelwright and Alfred Ackeroyd of Brookline. A former Bostonian who has come for a visit is William V. Bird, who was accompanied by Mrs. Bird. He owns lives in a restored Egyptian castle on an island in the River Nile and is widely known as an archaeological collector. Art lovers represented are Louis Kronberg of Boston and Aubrey Hunt of Cambridge. Both are artists of repute. There were a number of young people aboard. They have just been ordained and came from Rome.

DOUGHERTY HELD FOR DEATH INQUIRY

John Dougherty, twenty years old and single, living at No. 342 Leverett street, West End, is being held at police headquarters pending an investigation into the death of Michael Hallisy of either Holyoke or Springfield. Hallisy died at the Relief Hospital on Tuesday morning of a fractured skull received while in a fight with several men in Leverett street on Monday night. When he was brought into the hospital Hallisy was unconscious. He never recovered. Police inspector Thomas Lynch and Sergeant Brooks to-day detained Dougherty pending a complete inquiry into the circumstances of Hallisy's death.

SHOEMAKERS WIN STRIKE AT HARNEY PLANT

New accessions to the ranks of the striking shoe packing room employes in Lynn were reported to-day.

It is now estimated that as a result of the strike of from 250 to 300 packing room employes over 1,200 shoe workers in Lynn are idle.

The closing of the James Phelan & Son factory has thrown at least 800 persons out of work. It is rumored that Joseph Chant will follow Phelan's lead and shut his big factory.

Harney Company Yields.

The Harney Shoe Company to-day yielded to the demands of the strikers and this afternoon the twenty-seven ironers and twelve packing girls and dozen or more assistants, about fifty in all, returned to work.

Business Agent Frank W. Kidder is jubilant and predicts the early settlement of the strike in all the factories and general resumption of work. The Harney factory superintendent went to strike headquarters to-day and got Agent Kidder to go with him to P. J. Harney. Mr. Harney at once signed the scale.

The strike leaders to-day concentrated all their efforts on the Harney factory employes. Policemen moved around in the crowd which collected at the Harney place, but there was no disorder.

Yesterday the girls jeered the strikers when asked to join those who left the Phelan factory and several other shops. They said their wages had been raised and that they had no cause to quit work.

Over night they must have experienced a change of heart, for at least one dozen of the best of the Harney packing room employes and the ironers refused to go to work. They expect to bring out the rest of the forty packing room employes of this big factory sometime to-day.

Four Plants Affected.

Nine ironers employed by Ireney are striking to-day. About fifteen of the ironers in the Canal factory refused to go to work to-day.

The employes of U. K. & A. H. Jones are being brought into line. The whole force of the strike is being directed at the Phelan, Chant and Jones shoe factories.

To-night the striking packing room employes are to hold a big mass meeting in Lasters' Hall which may determine much. There are 500 of the 1,000 packing room employes members of the union. It is expected to-night that by far the greater part of the remaining 1,000 to-night.

Business Agent Kidder says the packing room workers in several other factories, where the union is less firmly established, have signified their willingness to come out in need be.

It is said that the strike was called in the four factories named because they were the only ones where the union felt it was strong enough to enforce its demands. In two not all the members obeyed the order to strike.

OLD MAN IS HELD ON LARCENY CHARGE

Charles H. Avery, seventy-six years old, just out of jail for committing a fraud in trying to obtain a pension, was sentenced to eighteen months in the House of Correction to-day by Judge Ely in the Municipal Court for stealing $200. He appealed and was committed until he could raise $500 bonds for trial in the Superior Court. The complainant is the Legal Loan Company of No. 10 State street. The charge is that Avery in August, 1907, gave a mortgage to the company on his household effects in South Framingham and took $200 on it. Investigation later showed that the piano had been bought on a lease and was not paid for, and that the furniture had been disposed of.

32 INJURED IN TANK EXPLOSION

ST. PETERSBURG, July 22.—Thirty-two persons, several of whom have since died, were injured to-day when a benzine tank exploded, blowing the roof off an immense chemical plant here. The building was on fire when the explosion occurred, and the victims are workmen, firemen and newspaper men.

BENNETT PARK, Detroit, July 22.—The Red Sox got here to-day fully primed for a double-header, as there is a postponed game to be wiped off the slate, but the Detroit management decided to stage only one performance, and that was in doubt, owing to rainy conditions.

There promised to be a battle of southpaws as far through the series as the left-handers lasted. Lake had Harry Wolter, Fred Burchell and Ray Collins groomed for the campaign, while Jennings dusted up all his off-shooters.

The Red Sox have no love for the Tigers —for that matter the American League champions are not popular with any of their rivals—so it was to be expected that Lake's men would do their prettiest to beat out the Tigers.

SOUTH END GROUNDS, July 22.—The Doves started their series of four scheduled games in three playing days this afternoon with the Pittsburg Pirates.

Manager Harry Smith of the Doves was in hopes of keeping the heavy hitters on the toboggan and draw up closer on the Dodgers, but it didn't look very promising for him to do that, as the Pirates have always had easy picking with the lowly Bostonians.

There was an increase in attendance at the game this afternoon, and it is probable that many of the fans journeyed to the park just to see Wagner perform. Honus always has been a good drawing card in Boston and stands ace high with the local baseball public.

Armenian Murdered, Body Found in Trunk at Lodging House of Missing Man—Strange Crime Puzzles Police.

The body of Minas Moonijian, a highly respected Armenian, who generally carried considerable money, was found shot through the chest and jammed into a new trunk in the room occupied by Vahan Demirjian, a fellow-Armenian, in the Emerson lodging house, one block distant from Lynn police headquarters, to-day. The police call the case the worst murder Lynn ever knew.

The identification was established soon after the body was found by Milton Pootan, who knew both Moonijian and Demirjian.

Moonijian had been missing since last Sunday night from his own lodgings in Church street, Lynn.

Demirjian has not been at the Emerson since last Monday, when he said he was going away for a few days. But Pootan, who identified the victim, says that he saw Demirjian at Revere Beach last Tuesday night. The police are now looking for Demirjian in connection with the murder mystery. Demirjian was known in English as Frank Jones.

Robbery the Motive.

Robbery is said to have been the motive of the murder. It is known that Moonijian had saved money to go back to Armenia, but that his departure had been delayed on account of unsettled conditions there. It is said that he had as much as $200.

Milton Pootan made the positive identity of the body at the undertaking rooms of M. P. Haven, No. 133 Central street. Pootan lives at No. 209 Sumner street, Lynn, and is Armenian interpreter for the Lynn police. He came to the undertaking shop in company with City Marshal Burckes and after examination of the body said:

"I know that man. He was Minas Moonijian. He was twenty-eight years old, and he has a married sister living in Roxbury. I do not know her husband's name, but he is a camper in the Plant shoe factory in Jamaica Plain. His first name is Tfisk.

"I have known this man for seven or eight years. He worked in a number of shoe factories in Lynn, but longer in the Reoply plant than any other. He had been away from Lynn for about two months. He went to Chicago. He came back to Lynn about two weeks ago. I saw him on the street last week and he was with a man I know by sight but not by name. I know of nobody who would want to kill this man. He did not have any money that I know of. He was a poor man, I think, although always a swell dresser.

Put in Trunk Alive.

"I know Frank Jones, the man in whose room the trunk was found. His right name was Vahan Demirjian. He is thirty-two years old and an Armenian. He is single. He was a vamper, too. He had worked with the man who was killed in several factories. Most people thought Jones had considerable money. It was said he had $2,000 and was going back to Turkey. There's where he was born."

An autopsy on the body of Moonijian was performed at noon by Medical Examiner Joseph G. Pinkham and Dr. O. C. Blair. At the close Dr. Pinkham would not say definitely whether the body might not have been packed into the trunk while there was still a spark of life in the body.

The autopsy showed that the man had been dead three or four days. Death was caused by one bullet, which entered the front of the neck under the collar bone, went downward and penetrated one side of the heart and came out near the lower end of the spine. The revolver was held close to the body when discharged.

The police at once began a search for the bullet, going over the room and through the dead man's clothing. It was not in the trunk. No one in the boarding house heard the shot, and the police think that the revolver might have been muffled.

Trunk Bought Two Months Ago.

An initial ring on the third finger of the dead man's left hand helped to complete the identity, bearing the letter "M". He had fifteen cents in his pocket, and an open faces lever watch, the crystal of which had been broken.

At the boarding house Landlord Jesse T. Robbins said that the trunk was brought to Demerjian's room about two months ago by a local express. He thought it was the Lynn Parcel Company, but the concern's books show no record of the delivery.

The trunk was a large, strong one, known as the steelclad type, covered nearly all over with thin sheet steel and ironbound corners.

COMPROMISE TO GIVE HIDES A SMALL DUTY

WASHINGTON, July 22.—The tariff conferees are endeavoring to conclude their work to-day by the adoption of a compromise. That each side would have to yield a little, it is said, has been told to the President by Senator Crane of Massachusetts. His work has been to sound Senators and line them up as far as possible for the President's program.

The basis of the compromise is said to be free oil, free iron ore, 40 or 50 cents a ton on coal and probably 7 or 8 per cent. on hides, with the House rates on boots and shoes and other leather products. These leather rates are lower than the Senate figures. Some Senators are now standing out for 10 per cent. on hides, although they will probably accept the compromise.

Although President Taft did not accomplish as much as he planned at his tariff dinner at the White House, the effect of the discussion, however, will be to hasten an agreement of the conferees and in consequence a report to the House and Senate may be taked for next Monday.

President Taft gave his guests to understand he believes the corporation tax will become popular with the people after they are made acquainted with its provisions and that it will not prove a hardship to any honest corporation. The President was told just what he could expect in the line of lower duties, and when he understood that he could not obtain the votes to reject the conference report and again open up the subject without causing a serious split in the party he yielded and allowed the conferees to understand he would accept the best they could do in compliance with his wishes.

President Taft saw and appreciated the truth of the newspaper stories that Senator Aldrich, who heads the Senate conferees, was in command of the situation, ably assisted by Representatives Calderhead and Fordney, who were appointed House conferees by Speaker Cannon in disregard of precedent. The President gathered that the Senate holds the whip and so far as the revision of the tariff is concerned.

Representative Dwight of New York, the House "whip," informed the President that on a direct vote the corporation tax would have no votes to spare.

EXPLOSION ON NAVY LAUNCH; MAN MAY DIE

PROVINCETOWN, July 22.—One man was probably fatally scalded and another badly burned as the result to-day of the explosion of the oiler in a forty foot launch attached to the Prairie of the Atlantic squadron. The accident happened in full view of hundreds of sailors on the warships and scores of people on shore who were waiting for this and other launches to take them to the fleet.

W. E. Brown, a rod passer of Philadelphia, is dying. He was thrown against a bulkhead and suffered internal injuries, and the steam which rushed out with a roar under high pressure, scalded him practically all over.

Engineer H. B. Bailey of Lynn is burned about the face and hands and is suffering with a broken leg.

The distilled launch was picked up by a launch from the Dixie, which was nearby, and towed to the Prairie. The injured men were lifted aboard and two doctors from the storeship Celtic were summoned. There is no hospital ship with the fleet, and it is probable that both victims will be taken to the United States Marine Hospital at Chelsea.

The bursting of some of the boiler tubes directly over the firepot was the cause of the explosion. The rush of steam tore off the door of the boiler and buried it against Engineer Bailey, breaking his leg. For a few minutes the entire launch was enveloped in a cloud of steam, and witnesses could hardly tell what had happened. Launches put out to the rescue from every direction and boats were manned from the shore. The harbor was quickly alive with craft of every description.

Three men in the launch escaped. They were H. S. Leiter of Toledo, a passenger, and H. S. Smith and George Cotter, sailors. Cotter jumped overboard and was picked up by the launch of the Dixie.

SLAIN MAN'S BODY JAMMED IN TRUNK IN LYNN HOUSE

tained two addresses. One was "A Huff, No. 168 Dearborn avenue." This is believed to be a Chicago address as the dead man recently came from that city. Another address was "Brophy Bros., 143." This is the telephone number of that factory.

Seen Sunday Afternoon.

The police found that the sister of the murdered man had been living at his lodgings on Church street as late as last Sunday afternoon.

It is certain, the police say, that the man was killed and put in the trunk in the Emerson lodging house prior to the departure of Demerjian last Monday.

The small place the time of the murder and disposal of the body between Sunday afternoon, when Moonjian's sister talked with him, and some time Monday, when Demerjian left the Emerson.

Accounts given by other Lynn Armenians about Moonjian confirmed what Pootan said of him.

He stood high in the local colony. He worked at Brophy Brothers' shoe factory up to the time he planned to return to Armenia a few weeks ago. When he heard there were serious disturbances in that country he changed his plans. As he had already quit his job at Brophy's he decided to take a trip, and went out to Chicago. He was always a saving man, and was also fond of travel, putting money by in order to be provided with funds when opportunity came for him to go about.

He returned from Chicago a few days ago and he found that reports from Turkey were still disquieting, so he decided to put off his trip still longer.

He was a man of taste and refinement, as shown by the appearance of his room in the Church-street lodgings, the books and decorations there and Moonjian's general style of living. He frequently went to see his married sister in Roxbury. She kept in close touch with him, too as shown by her coming down to Lynn to see him after his return from Chicago.

Say Missing Man Went Armed.

Jones, or Demerjian, was a man of different nature, if what the Armenians in Lynn say does him justice. He was not so popular as Moonjian and had rather an aggressive disposition.

It is said that Demerjian always carried a revolver on his person.

He had been talking of later of returning to Armenia and was thought to have been saving up for that purpose. It was also said that he had not been able to hoard quite as much money for his trip as he would have, though he had talked considerably about his plans and what he was going to do in his travels.

Apparently for the trip, Demerjian bought the trunk about two months ago.

The theory that Moonjian was murdered some Sunday, probably in the afternoon or night, was apparently confirmed by Mrs. Newhall, of the Somerset house, No. 72 Church street, where Moonjian roomed. Mrs. Newhall said that on Sunday the dead man's sister was with him, either at the house or out walking. To an American reporter she said:

"Mr. Moonjian had roomed here about three weeks and he told me when he hired the room that he came from Chicago and was going to work here. I have not seen him since Saturday.

"To-day his sister called at my house before the discovery of the murder and asked for her brother. I told her I had not seen him since Saturday. She spoke good English. In reply she said:

Missed By Sister.

"'Why that is strange, for I saw him Sunday. I have not seen him since and don't know where he can be. We generally met each other nearly every day.'

"I have not seen this sister often and do not know her name, but I think she works in one of the shoe factories.

"Mr. Moonjian's room is just as he left it, for I expected he would be back. He was a man of good habits and had only two callers, the sister, and a man named Stevens who roomed here, but who left about two weeks ago.

"The man saved his money and I thought he had quite a sum, for when he paid his room rent he always had a good sized roll of bills."

The Emerson lodging house, where many Armenians room, is at No. 148 Liberty street, a block from the police headquarters. Demerjian, or Jones, had roomed there since last August.

Blood Flowing from Trunk.

The body was discovered at 9 o'clock Mrs. Bessie Robbins, wife of Proprietor Robbins of the Emerson, went into Jones's room with his laundry. She noticed an odor, which she traced to the new trunk.

Then she saw a stream of blood, which had trickled out from a corner of the lid, down the side of the trunk and to the carpet. With her horror and fear increasing every second, Mrs. Robbins called her husband, who made a brief investigation, but did not open the trunk.

Instead, he sent to police headquarters near by. Inspectors Stacey, Burckes and Frank Wright and Africanus Crowley and Burnett went to the Emerson. The lock of the trunk was broken, the lid was raised and a ghastly murder was disclosed to the officers and the horrified Robbins couple.

The body, with shoes and coat removed, had been thrust into the trunk feet foremost. The upper part had been doubled over on the legs and the head had been jammed down violently to make it fit the narrow space.

An idea of the force used to make the body fit into the trunk with the lid closed may be gained from the fact that the four officers had to exert considerable strength to get it out.

Inspector Burckes sent for Medical Examiner Joseph G. Pinkham, who arrived in a few minutes. He pronounced the case one of murder without hesitation. He ordered the trunk and body removed to the undertaking rooms of W. M. P. Haven on Central avenue.

At the undertaking rooms Dr. Pinkham made preparations for an autopsy. Meanwhile, a preliminary examination was made of the body and of its blood-stained clothing. The body was clad in trousers and vest, shirt and underclothes, all of good material.

The man was about thirty-three years old, with brown, curly hair and light mustache. He weighed 175 pounds.

The eyes were wide open and seemed to the officers to have a fearful staring look, as though the last things which the victim had seen in life had filled him with a frightful fear and horror.

This ghastly expression in the dead eyes started the police theory that the man was not lifeless when first thrust into the trunk. An autopsy is expected to determine as to this.

Dead About a Week.

The officers examined closely the trunk. It was a cheap affair, fitted with wooden slats on the outside to strengthen it, and a lock of the hinge-and-hasp variety.

On one end was written in blue pencil: "Frank Jones, 148 Liberty street, R. 45, Emerson House."

The fact that the word "Lynn" was not included in the address made the officers argue immediately that the trunk was purchased at a Lynn department store or furnishing place.

As the inspectors investigated the mystery appeared more and more baffling. Proprietor Robbins and his wife are much agitated, especially to think that the trunk had been stored in their home for a week or more. The hint that the trunk stench, which, as was, came into their house alive and well, was finally murdered there and finally jammed into the trunk made their flesh crawl vertical.

The City Marshal would like to ask Jones all about the trunk, how he got it when, where and what for.

So far as known, there has been no one in or out o Jones's room since he left, except as noted, the household crowd.

The last person to be in the room long for any length of time was Jones, when he occupied it last Sunday night. No particular thing is paid attention to in the announcement that he was going away for a few days. He left his trunk in the room. Lynn shoe shops, and the strike troubles have caused other men to lay off.

ARMY REVOLT ADDS TO WAR PANIC IN SPAIN

MADRID, July 22.—The situation in Morocco and at home is hourly growing worse.

A dispatch from Barcelona today says that a battalion of troops about to be embarked for Melilla revolted and turned their weapons against their officers. They were overpowered by other troops without any casualties, but it is feared that their example will be followed by other discontented regiments which are objecting to be dispatched against the tribesmen.

Little definite news is being given out from the war ministry in regard to the fighting in Morocco. It is known that the Spanish troops under General Marina have been under fire around Melilla for about ten days, and it is believed the government is suppressing news of their losses.

More than 20,000 tribesmen are said to be under arms and it is believed that the Riffians soon will swell their numbers to 40,000. These men are all splendidly armed and their horsemen constitute the best irregular cavalry in the world, perhaps.

They possess the courage of fanaticism and if they all take the field Spain will send an army of from 50,000 to 75,000 to subdue them. In this connection it is said today that former Captain-General Weyler, who commanded the Spanish forces in Cuba at the outbreak of the war with America, may be sent to Africa in supreme command.

HAINS INVENTS NEW MACHINES IN SING SING

NEW YORK, July 22.—The appeal of Captain Peter C. Hains, Jr., who is serving a term in Sing Sing for killing William E. Annis at the Bayside Yacht Club on August 15 last, is being prepared. Attorney Eugene L. Young, who has just returned to Long Island City after a conference with the prisoner, said today that the case would be presented to the Appellate Division at the Fall term.

Young says Hains is perfecting an invention from which he expects to make a fortune. It will increase the efficiency of the street cleaning force fifty per cent, according to the inventor.

"Captain Hains has been put in charge of the printing department of the prison here and its work," said Attorney Young. "He has invented a new type of machine for the tragedy, and since going to Sing Sing has been busy on it at work.

"The prison authorities think so much of the latest project that they have given him free scope. They have put at his disposal all the men he needs to work out his ideas thoroughly. He is working on a garbage collector and on a new type of printing roll, as well. Captain Hains has many hopes for the success of this. He has also confidence in regard to his appeal."

The prisoner's children are with their grandfather, General Hains, at Cape May.

FERRY JUST MISSES CRASH WITH CAMDEN

The Narrow Gauge ferryboat Newtown came within a foot of crushing broadside into the steel prow of the turbine steamer Camden to-day while trying to make her slip at Bower's Wharf. She had 200 passengers aboard.

As the Newtown approached the slip the engines were stopped to let her enter under her own momentum. Just here the outgoing tide from Fort Point channel is strong, and before the ferryboat officials realized it the craft was being swept sideways down up to the Camden.

The screams of the load gathered at the shore end of the ferryboat made a wild scramble for the cabin and some rescued to smash lifepreservers. While the officers were quieting them the captain had ordered full speed astern.

The engines of the Newtown began to drive the paddlewheels back at full speed. She backed away just as she was within a few inches of the prow of the Camden. It was necessary to run out about 200 yards before the ferryboat could get sufficient headway to overcome the strength of the tide which swept across the mouth of the slip.

PHILIP CABOT'S WIFE IN FIGHT FOR CHILDREN

All Back Bay society is interested in the action brought by Mrs. Lucy Fuller Cabot, wife of Philip Cabot of No. 3 Mt. Vernon square, for the custody of their two children, Sylvia, six, and Faith, now nearly five years old.

The petition is returnable before Judge George A. Carroll the 29th, when Mr. Cabot is called on to show why it should not be granted.

In August of last year society was astonished when it was reported that Mrs. Cabot and Mrs. Anna Bowditch Perkins, wife of Frederick Bowditch Perkins of Nest, South Framingham, had gone together to South Dakota for the purpose of securing divorces from their husbands.

Mrs. Cabot is a relative by marriage of Amabel Emery Cabot Loring. Before she was married she was Miss Lucy Fuller. She was a favorite guest at one of Mrs. Thorndike Rogers, Margaret Fuller.

Went to South Dakota.

Mrs. Perkins was Miss Anna B. Bowditch, a member of one of the most aristocratic of the ancient New England families. Her husband is a member of the Somerset, Norfolk Hunt, Tennis and Racquet, Exchange and other clubs.

The two women went to Sioux Falls, S. D., and their first step was to register at the Sioux Falls Country Club. It was announced that they had purchased jointly a twenty-acre farm a few miles south of Sioux Falls, where they were to erect a bungalow for the future use of them.

Mr. Cabot closed the splendid Mt. Vernon square house and went to his bungalow in Penkapoag. He had his two beautiful children with him at that time. Boston society caught its breath, but dared speculate only in secret because of the prominence of all parties concerned.

Pleads for Her Children.

In her petition to the court for her children Mrs. Cabot declares that she believes it would be better for the little ones if they were with her rather than with their father.

Mrs. Cabot now signs herself as from Sioux Falls, S. D., while her husband is residing in his Summer bungalow at Canton, Mass. The latter address is the Kimball building on Tremont street with Robert Bridges, Laurence Minot, Jr., Henry Russell, Moses Williams, Jr., and Wayland Manning.

A shady verandah, a hammock and a glass of iced "Salada" Tea, cool and refreshing.

A DOMESTIC TRAGEDY will be dramatically related in the SUNDAY AMERICAN by Clara Morris.

NORWOOD MAN SHOOTS SELF

NORWOOD, July 22.—Arthur T. Lee, thirty-seven years old, single, who was known to his associates as "Jimmy" Lee, shot himself through the right temple early today.

He had been suffering from melancholia and had had delusions for sometime past. His brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. J. Millish Foster of Chapel street, with whom he boarded, had been watching him carefully for some days past, and were making preparations to have him committed to a hospital.

Mr. Lee was a stone workman and had been employed for a contractor, H. Montague of Boston. Yesterday he worked on a Harvard College job, and it is supposed that during the day he bought a new revolver in Boston.

At 6:30 o'clock this morning his sister, while preparing breakfast, heard the report of a revolver upstairs. She screamed for her husband, who was still abed. Mr. Foster ran to Lee's room and found him lying on the floor in a pool of blood.

ELOPING PAIR WED IN BOSTON

PROVIDENCE, July 22.—Because of family opposition to their keeping company, Miss Mollie E. Campbell, one of the prettiest girls in Providence, and Mendel Crocker, a singer, eloped to Boston and were married.

The news came out today, through the receipt of two letters from the bride, who signed herself "Mrs. Mollie Crocker." One of the letters was to her father, Thomas, No. 37 Bridgham street, who protested against her friendship for Crocker because of difference in religion.

The bride's employer received a letter in which she said that she came to Boston by trolley and fixed the city so well that her husband had difficulty in finding her there. The bride is twenty-one, while the groom is ten years older.

300 PERISH IN EARTHQUAKE

VICTORIA, B. C., July 22.—News is brought by the Japanese steamer Tricolor, from Corsilaya, Java, that 300 persons died in an earthquake on the coast of Sumatra, the second largest island in the Malay Archipelago, in mid June.

The earthquake followed an eruption of Mount Kortitji, a volcanic peak 13,400 feet high, and inland fifty miles from Indrapura. Mount Kortitji has long been supposed to be an extinct volcano, its crater having been filled with a large lake.

Following the eruption of the volcano and the earthquake there were torrential rains, flooding the rivers and causing additional loss.

WORLD RACERS NEAR RUSSIA

Two of the BOSTON AMERICAN globe girdlers, Benjamin Morris and H. L. Whitman, are rapidly approaching our southern and in a little more than a week they will meet their rivals at Vladivostok, but this will be for only a brief spell, for both must make connections in the Czar's Realm straightaway which will decide which of the twain will bring to New England the honor of circling the earth.

Morris, who is three days out of Moscow, is scooting across Siberia as fast as the Trans-Siberian express can carry him, on the way toward the Pacific. Whitman is out on the Pacific now, on board the Empress of Japan, and must depend upon routine he lands at Yokohama whether he or Morris will be the BOSTON AMERICAN'S champion.

"Our Girls" left London today on the way to Paris, going across the English channel by train. They will spend three days in the French capital before proceeding with their trip.

THIS PET DOG HAS WHOOPING COUGH

EAST ORANGE, July 22.—In a residence section slivs with dogs of all breeds, in which a fog reigns, the best example of the canine with human proclivities, Foxy, the pet of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Norris of No. 224 South Clinton street, has won the palm, simply by contracting whooping cough. Foxy is four years old, and has spent most of his time with the children of the block. There came an epidemic of whooping cough, and Foxy caught it.

AUTO SAVES NEGRO FROM A LYNCHING

ATLANTA, Ga., July 22.—Identified by Mrs. Emma Brown, a bride of two months, as the negro who maltreated her, William Webb was rushed to Atlanta in an automobile by Sheriff McKinney of Marietta and lodged in jail to avoid lynching. A thousand men were clamoring for the negro's life at Marietta when Sheriff McKinney, with a pistol in each hand, ordered the chauffeur to rush out on all speed and the big machine dashed ahead at full speed, causing the would-be lynchers to scatter.

JUDGE'S THREAT PUT STOP TO TALKING

Judge Day in the Municipal Court today was forced to make a threat of prosecution for contempt in order to put a stop to loud talking during the hearing of several trials of the automobile laws. "Unless this conversation is stopped," said the court, "I will have the chief officer turn out who is talking, and at the conclusion of the entire trial I will have him brought to me and fined for contempt." This had a quieting effect, and the hearing was resumed.

TO BRING ALLEGED EMBEZZLER BACK

Inspectors Pierce and Conboy left for Oakland, Cal., today to bring back Frank W. Newberg, who is wanted here on the charge of embezzling $1,500 from the Fox River Paper Company of No. 27 Fulton street. Newburg fled from here in May. Many gambling is said to have been Newberg's undoing.

TESTIMONY OF NAVAL SURGEON SHOWS SUTTON PROBABLY WAS SUICIDE

ANNAPOLIS, Md., July 22.—Major George Pickerell, surgeon on duty at the naval hospital, testified on the witness stand to-day in the second governmental inquiry into the death of Lieutenant James N. Sutton, who was shot to death on the Marine Barracks grounds on October 12, 1907, that the revolver which caused Sutton's death had been held close to the head because the hair was singed about the bullet hole and burned powder was found in the brain.

Major Pickerell testified that there were four wounds on the head, but not one of which could have caused death. This is the first medical testimony given in evidence to substantiate the theory that Sutton committed suicide.

Also it was intimated to-day that an order to exhume the body of the dead officer might be issued. Mrs. Sutton is seeking permission to have this done, it was said, and has asked that the revelation of a new autopsy be placed before the court. This followed the testimony of Surgeon Pickerell describing the course of the bullet, indicating the theory of suicide.

Point to Suicide.

Major Pickerell identified a leather holster that was placed in evidence as the one worn by Sutton on his right thigh. The witness said that no weapon was in the holster when he saw it.

"I got the impression from what was said that after the quarrel Sutton went out to kill some one," he said. "He fired at Adams as that officer rushed in, and after being hurled to the ground, shot himself."

This testimony was considered directly favorable to the naval men involved. Both Mrs. Sutton and her daughter gave evidence of the disappointment they felt at the collapse of this testimony which they had earlier declared would prove their case.

The witness gave his evidence in a convincing manner. He indicated by pointing to his own head where the wound was inflicted. Handing Sutton's rusty pistol to the witness Mr. Davis asked Surgeon Pickerell to hold it above his head to illustrate just how Sutton might have fired the shot.

"I'll do it if the gun isn't loaded," replied the surgeon, creating a loud laugh from the feminine delegation.

Witness Handles Pistol.

The witness carefully examined the gun and then grasped the revolver in his right hand. Twisting the weapon until he held it with but two fingers, the witness snapped the trigger. It demonstrated, considering the facts of the quarrel, that Sutton's fatal would could have been self-inflicted.

Major Leonard asked the witness if a man lying on the ground could fire the gun in the manner described. The physician declared that unless Sutton's arms had been pinioned in such a way that he could not free himself the wound could be inflicted.

Colonel Charles A. Doyen, commander of the marine barracks, the night Sutton died, was then called.

Case May Go Higher.

He said that after midnight he had been aroused by Lieutenant Utley. "Utley called to me, 'Lieutenant Sutton has killed Lieutenant Boelker and shot himself,' was the first material testimony the commander gave.

Mr. Davis argued that the evidence was not admissible and asked the court to exclude it on the ground that it was only hearsay. "I don't know what other court may be asked to pass on the record of this proceeding and I want to keep it free from error," Davis explained.

This was the first official notification that the Suttons had decided to take the case to a Federal Court, probably for criminal action, and it caused a stir among the wives and friends of the naval men. The court ruled to allow the testimony.

The Colonel furnished additional corroboration of the testimony in regard to the in juries of Adams and Boelker.

"Boelker gave me the bullet which had pierced his coat, inflicting only a bruise on his body," he went on. "There was nothing to indicate that the bullet had come in contact with anything."

"What was Lieutenant Adams's condition?"

"He was very much excited, but dead sober."

The witness proceeded to relate Adams's version of the fighting. The testimony Colonel Doyen said, coincided in many respects to the Lieutenant's narrative. It included the stories of Bevan, Adams and Utley. "I did not question Lieutenant Boelker because I felt that he was under the influence of liquor and could not be depended upon," Colonel Doyen said.

TO-DAY'S CABLE NEWS

Up to Midnight, London Time

Father Tyrrell Buried Without Rites of Church

LONDON—The remains of Father Tyrrell were buried without Catholic rites, but his friend, Abbe Bremond, said prayers and blessed the grave. The Catholic Tablet will say that in view of the adverse comment occasioned by the refusal of the Bishop of Southwark to allow the priest to be buried, he will be buried with Catholic rites it is officially asked to state that no one of his friends in attendance at the deathbed could give the Bishop any assurance that Father Tyrrell made any retraction, either written, verbal or by signs, during the whole of his last illness. As the case of Father Tyrrell was specially reserved to the Holy See, retraction was necessary as a condition of Catholic burial.

20 RUSSIAN EXILES CROSS TO ALASKA

SEATTLE, Wash., July 22.—A special cable to the Post-Intelligencer from Nome, Alaska, says twenty Russian political exiles have landed in Alaska, after effecting a passage across Bering Strait from East Cape, Siberia. According to information given in the authorities at Teller Town and Port Clarence, towns in Alaska opposite Nome, by fifteen of the exiled Russians who were captured when attempting to re-enter Alaska, the exiles covered 1500 miles in 40 days in crossing the strait.

The exiles were driven by dog teams, selling boats from the natives and to aid them in crossing the strait.

IN TERROR ON STRANDED SHIP

SOUTHAMPTON, July 22.—Their ship lashed by wind and waves, the hundred passengers on the stranded Nord Deutscher Lloyd liner Derfflinger on the Needles reef spent a night of terror and were relieved to-day by calmer waters and lower winds.

With the coming of darkness a high wind sprang up and the great liner groaned and trembled while the passengers waited for morning. Women became hysterical and though the officers and crew tried to impress upon them that there was no immediate danger they refused to be pacified. Later the ship was floated, apparently uninjured.

50 ELKS UPSET IN TROLLEY CAR

POTTSVILLE, Pa., July 22.—Five persons were seriously hurt to-day when a special trolley car carrying about fifty Elks turned turtle after dashing down a steep grade.

The car was demolished and the lodge men were piled among the debris, scarcely one escaping without injury.

The Elks were all from Easton and were returning from their annual visit to the Pottsville lodge.

POWERFUL WESTERN STORY—Read "On the Santa Barbara Trail" in the SUNDAY AMERICAN.

ASK AMERICAN TO FIND FATHER

If any reader of the BOSTON AMERICAN knows where Edward Williams, formerly a restaurant waiter, living at No. 135 Tyler street, in the South End, can be found, let him get word quickly to Williams to come home to his sick wife and their little children.

Mrs. Williams, confined to her bed in the Tyler street room for several months, is about at the end of her courage. The six children have been distributed among friends. Now that Williams has been away from home two weeks, the wife and mother is trying to get word to him somehow from her sick bed. She has told friends. She has asked the police to find him. She asks the BOSTON AMERICAN to print the story so that its army of readers will work for her, too.

"I care little for myself," she said to-day, "but I want to find my husband and have him support his children. There are six little ones, five boys and a girl, the oldest is only thirteen and the youngest is a baby of eighteen months.

"My husband worked several months in a restaurant in Dewey square and contributed to the support of myself and the children up to the first week in July. Then he went away. I don't know where he went. He left me without a cent in the house. The rent was due. I was dangerously sick then, too, though I am better now.

"If the BOSTON AMERICAN will tell all, this for me he may read it and come back to us. Or someone may know where he is and compel him to return."

GREAT ANSWER SONG FREE—Words and music of "I'll Always Love You, Sweetheart, in the Same Old Way." You get them free with the SUNDAY AMERICAN.

UNION CIGAR PLANT AT THE FOOD FAIR

A miniature cigar factory, showing in detail the great precaution used to insure cleanliness and prevent the spreading of disease where union conditions prevail, will be one of the exhibits at the Food Fair which opens in Mechanics building on September 27. The unique exhibit is planned and will be conducted by the Cigarmakers' Union to demonstrate its contention that union made cigars are the cleanest made in the tobacco world. The exhibit will cost at least $1,200. The exhibit will include a smoking room, where lovers of the "weed" may sample free the product of the factory.

O. H. P. BELMONT'S ESTATE $1,094,000

NEW YORK, July 22.—W. Holden Weeks, appraiser of the estate of the late Oliver H. P. Belmont, who died on June 10, 1908, has filed his report in the surrogate's office. It is known that Mr. Belmont left a gross estate in real and personal property of $1,197,853.58. The net value of the estate is $1,094,955.08. Mrs. Alva E. Belmont is the beneficiary, and the amount of the inheritance tax to be paid by her is $10,849.05.

BACKACHE

Is more often the result of a diseased condition of the kidneys than any other cause.

WARNER'S SAFE CURE

is the only positive cure for all forms of Kidney trouble.

A TRIAL BOTTLE OF THIS GREAT KIDNEY CURE WILL BE SENT ABSOLUTELY FREE TO EVERY READER OF THE BOSTON AMERICAN WHO SUFFERS FROM KIDNEY, LIVER, BLADDER OR BLOOD DISEASE.

The kidneys are the organs that remove the poisonous material from the blood. If they become inflamed, congested or otherwise weakened in their action the poison remains in the blood and the whole system becomes filled with uric acid.

The general symptoms are backache, loss of appetite, decrease in weight, puffy condition under the eyes and in the ankles, sallow complexion, torpid liver, too frequent flow of urine, sediments in he urine. If any or all of these symptoms are present you should at once commence taking Warner's Safe Cure.

ANALYSIS FREE.

If you have any doubt as to the development of the disease in your system send a sample of your urine, putting your name and address on the package, to our Medical Department, and we will analyze it and send you a report, with advice and medical booklet, free.

When the kidneys are diseased the uric acid is not carried off and this causes rheumatism. Backache, Gout and Bright's Disease. Warner's Safe Cure drives out the uric acid and prevents and cures all forms of kidney disease.

Warner's Safe Cure is made from the fresh juices of plants and medicinal roots, gathered in the proper season in various quarters of the globe. Men skilled in botany and chemistry compound it. It is pleasant to the taste and agreeable to the most sensitive stomach. Sold everywhere by druggists, two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00 a bottle.

TRIAL BOTTLE FREE. To convince every sufferer from diseases of the kidneys, liver, bladder and blood that WARNER'S SAFE CURE will cure them, a trial bottle and a sample box of Warner's Safe Pills will be sent FREE OF CHARGE, postpaid, to any one who will write WARNER'S SAFE CURE CO., Rochester, N. Y., and mention having seen this liberal offer in the Boston American.

Constipation and Biliousness

WARNER'S SAFE PILLS, purely vegetable, sugar-coated, absolutely free from injurious substances, a perfect laxative, cure Indigestion, Biliousness, Torpid Liver and Constipation. They do not gripe or leave any bad after effects. 25 cents a box.

POPE GREETS BOSTON AMERICAN'S SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHERS

Pope Pius gave audience this month to five Greater Boston Sunday school teachers, who were winners in Tour No. 1 contest and sent abroad by the BOSTON AMERICAN on a European pleasure journey lasting two months.

The request for the privilege of admission to the presence of His Holiness was at first refused, but when it was learned by the Vatican authorities that the applicants were BOSTON AMERICAN Sunday school teachers it was finally granted, although it would have been impossible for ordinary tourists to have obtained such an honor at that time.

They were blessed by the Pope in a distinguished gathering at the Vatican, and came home with this as the most memorable and remarkable experience of a sightseeing journey which none of them will ever forget.

Miss Leona Elizabeth Kelly, a teacher in the Sunday school of the Church of the Holy Sacrament in Cambridge, came to the BOSTON AMERICAN office after her tour, thread under the supervision of this newspaper, and told of the Papal audience of which she was a member. This bright young girl returned home supremely impressed with the head of the great Church of which she is a communicant. She had kissed his ring and he had bestowed upon the head of this Massachusetts girl the benediction that emperors and kings have been proud to have the love for.

The five BOSTON AMERICAN Sunday school teachers who were blessed by the Pope arrived in New York on the steamship Germania on Tuesday, all with the exception of Miss Ella McCrillis, who remained with relatives in New York, came to Boston on an early train, and arrived at home that night. The others in the party were Miss Mary Thompson of Quincy, John J. Mulvihill of Waltham, Miss Margaret M. Butler of Revere, and Miss Kelly, who lives with her parents at No. 174 Hamilton street, Cambridge.

Delightful All the Way.

When Miss Kelly told how successful the BOSTON AMERICAN tour had been, she said:

"We left Boston on the White Star line Cymric on May 29 and got back to New York one day late. The delay was due to a storm we ran into when four days out and coming home on the Germania. That was a week ago Sunday. I was awfully frightened when it stormed but I needn't have been, it seems. We landed, when we went across to Europe at Queenstown and I cannot begin to tell you how beautiful Ireland is. I had heard so much about it, but the most that was ever said doesn't half describe that country. We went to Cork and to Dublin after leaving Killarney. And isn't the lake pretty? We rode through the Gap of Dunloe and we visited Kate Carney's cottage. Who was she? They say she was the prettiest girl in Ireland in her time. But I wouldn't if she was prettier than her granddaughter, who lives in the cottage now!

Saw Shakespeare's Home.

From Ireland we went to England. We were at Stratford-on-the-Avon, and saw Shakespeare's house and Anne Hathaway's cottage and then we had four days in London. I liked London pretty well. But it was very noisy. But so was Paris, which I liked best of all cities, with Rome next. While in London we saw the Houses of Parliament, which is a wonderful building, and we were in Westminster Abbey and the Tower. While we were in carriages on London Bridge we saw the draw open and they said it was a most unusual sight. We were four days in Paris and had carriages for two days. We saw so much there it is hard to tell where to begin. It is a beautiful, beautiful city. We went from Paris to Cologne and there we had a sail lasting from 9 in the morning until 9 in the evening up the Rhine and past old Heidelberg. That river—shall I ever forget it? It was perfectly grand.

"In Switzerland it took us two hours and a half in a car to ride up Mount Rigi, where the scenery was sublime. At the summit we could look down on Lake Lucerne. It was like a great sapphire at our feet. That was in June, but it was so cold on top of the mountain that we threw snowballs at each other.

At the Vatican.

"But what impressed me most of all was what I saw in Rome. We were honored by an audience with the Pope while there. When we first requested it of Monsignor Kennedy, he said it was too late to arrange it. But when he was told we were BOSTON AMERICAN Sunday school teachers he made it possible.

"We went to a room in the Vatican. I did not learn what the apartment is called, but it was a big one and somehow you feel at once you are in a sacred place. We dressed as we were told. We wore black gowns and mantillas on our heads. We knelt while His Holiness walked around the room and as he passed us we kissed his signet ring and he blessed us.

"His Holiness is not so old as I thought him to be—you know how you get impressions before you see a thing one. But he had white hair and such a presence! He seemed saintly and so unlike any kind. He was dressed in white and wore red slippers. I shall carry as long as I live in my heart and mind the impression he made upon me. It was all over quickly, and solemn. All those kneeling silent, devout figures and that white-robed man slowly passing to bless them. I shall never cease to be thankful that I had the privilege of that audience. There were many cardinals in Rome and other prelates to the room.

Italy's King.

"We attended solemn high mass in St. Peter's while in Rome and it was the most impressive church service I ever saw—there were so many cardinals and other church dignitaries there. Another very interesting place in the Eternal City is the Catacombs of St. Sebastian, where St. Cecelia and many of the early Christians were buried.

"We saw the king in Lucerne we went from St. Gothard to Milan and from Milan to Venice, which is best beautiful. I hated to leave it—it is the fair city of your dreams. We were there two days and had gondola sails and saw all the sights and also the King and Queen of Italy who came upon the balcony overlooking St. Mark's square while we happened to be standing on it during some celebration.

"They were so near we could have touched them. The next day I saw the Queen again. She came while we were there into a shop where they make lace accompanied by just one maid. I wouldn't have known her then, she was dressed so differently, if she had not been pointed out to me. She wore a long cloak when she came into the shop. She was fascinatingly dressed but no more expensively. I should say than a well-to-do American lady. But her gown when she came on the balcony was magnificent. She is a very handsome woman, and seems to have lovely manners. The Italian monarchs were the only royalty I saw.

HUDSON SHIP REPLICA DUE

NEW YORK, July 22.—The replica of the Half Moon, the staunch little caravel in which Hendrik Hudson braved the dangers of the new world in 1609, will retrace from Amsterdam late to-morrow upon the Holland-American freight ship Scestdyk for participation in the Hudson-Fulton celebration in September.

Die Halve Maen, as the Dutch sailors know the vessel, will be taken to the Brooklyn Navy Yard and kept there until officially turned over to the Hudson-Fulton committee. The Half Moon is an exact reproduction of Hudson's ship. She is 43 feet long, 18 feet beam and of 81 tons displacement. She draws 7 feet of water and her hand-made sails are wonders of maritime creation. Her cabin contains 40 hour-glass, and two ancient cannon poke their noses from portholes.

PRESIDENT'S GUARD GETS 'MASH' NOTES

BEVERLY, July 22.—Lon Goodhue, the Beverly man who is in charge of the Taft cottage, is the recipient of many tender notes. His responsible position has attracted the attention of the girls, and as a result Lon's mail is filled with scented and colored notespaper.

"I'm a married man," said Lon plaintively, "and I don't like this, and neither does my wife, especially my wife. One woman wants a lock of my hair, and another wants to take me buggy riding, because I'm on duty near the President's house. When I was sent down here Chief Ferguson told me to look out for anarchists who have long hair and carry bombs, but I ain't near so much afraid of them as I am of these goo-goo girls with curls.

Lon got a different sort of letter to-day. It was from an Amesbury woman who said she had always admired Taft's husband is out of work and she is very anxious that Andrew Carnegie should send her a million dollars.

She says that she has written to Andy, but his secretaries intercept the letters. She asks good, handsome Mr. Taft to speak of her case to President Taft and to give him call Carnegie's attention to it.

"Pretty good, that part about me speaking to President Taft, ain't it? I've only seen him all over once, and that wasn't long, but I don't think he and I will ever get exactly what you might call chummy.

Miss Helen Taft, the younger White House to-day for Newport with Miss Eleanor Sherman, and will visit Mrs. Robert Lewis over Sunday. Miss Taft will be a guest at a cooking class given by Mrs. Roeber is arranging for her daughter Eleanor.

Mrs. John C. Phillips of Boston, mother of Assistant Secretary of War Phillips, entertained Miss Helen and her brother Robert at dinner at her cottage at Bass Rocks, and at Moraine Farm, Wenham Lake. A number of the young people from the various foreign embassies, located for the Summer along the north shore, were present. Mrs. Phillips has long been connected with the diplomatic set in Washington. Mrs. Phillips was assisted by her son's wife, Mrs. John C. Phillips, at the dinner laid for sweetie.

Mrs. Taft has become one of the subscribers to the musicales arranged for the North Shore colony by Mrs. Hall McAllister of New York, owing to her illness, however, she was unable to attend the premiere, her sister, Mrs. Howe, taking her place. The musicale was given at the home of Mrs. Henry F. Keyes on Hale's Corner, Beverly Cove. The artists were Miss Corinne Moore Rider, soprano; Mrs. Oliver Whiteley Hilton, violinist, and Mrs. Charles Lamartine Barrows, pianist. Mrs. Taft's health is improving rapidly it is expected that she will be able to attend some of the musicales before her departure for Washington.

Through the instrumentality of Alderman Henry F. Sweetser, the school children are hoping to have President Taft at the Fifth of November, when they are planning to give him after his return to Washington. The entertainment is being arranged for Beverly children with the school children as the hosts.

GRAETZIN LIGHT IS AMONG BEST

In order to correct a misstatement published in several papers of this city, to the effect that Mr. Westermann of the Welsbach Street Lighting Company has made a statement to the Finance Commission of Boston, that the Graetzin lamp had proved to be an absolute failure in the city of Berlin, where it has been in use during the past year, Mr. Richard Heatzer, representing Ehrlich & Graetz, the lamp manufacturers, called his firm in Berlin, requesting them to have the Municipal Gas Works of Berlin to send to the street lighting of that city, cable to their office in this city, Mr. Heatzer is the German consul.

Dear Sir—I herewith inform you that the following cablegram from the Municipal Gas Works in Berlin was received at this consulate on July 16, 1909.

On request of the firm of Ehrlich & Graetz, we beg to inform you that the Graetzin outdoor lamps delivered by the firm of Ehrlich & Graetz for the street lighting of the city of Berlin work at full satisfaction. (Signed)

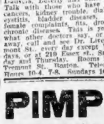
PROFESSOR LINDSAY DIES IN KENTUCKY

Thomas B. Lindsay, professor of Latin in Boston University, died yesterday of heart disease in Louisville, Ky., according to a dispatch from that city. Professor Lindsay was visiting his father-in-law, Mr. Bull, and had been ill a week. His home is at No. 28 Belcrarres road, West Newton.

$50 FOR LIQUOR SALES.

Patrick Kelley of Medfield 6-day pleaded guilty in the Dedham District Court to two violations of the liquor law and was fined $50 on each complaint. Edward McGowan of the same place pleaded not guilty to a like charge and was held in $400 for a hearing July 26.

FREE TO THE SICK



This month, Dr. Greene will be consulting physician without fee, at the office of Hall & Ruckel, 214 Fulton st., New York City. Those who call will find the doctor at a glance, whether it is curable or not, and will not be deceived. He has been in Boston for 7 years, and has cured more people than any doctor in Boston. Many of these people have been cured, in fact, given up to die by Boston physicians. Others, horribly sick and other ills. Why not you? Talk with those who have been cured of kidney troubles, diabetes, Bright's disease, catarrh, bladder troubles, rheumatism, nervousness, blackheads, pimples, sores, blood disorders, female complaints, piles, dropsy, gout, liver, stomach disorders, etc., or if incurable from any other doctor, say so. Dr. Greene's great success is curing cases pronounced incurable by other doctors. Consultation free. If you cannot call, write Dr. Greene, at 214 Fulton st., Brooklyn, N. Y., or at 218 Essex st., Salem, on every Wednesday, from 9:30 a. m. to 4 p. m. Main office, 214 Fulton st., Brooklyn, N. Y. Telephone Tremont 1720-1. Hours 10-4 P.M. Sundays 10-2.

PIMPLES

"I tried all kinds of blood remedies which failed to do me any good, but I have found the right thing at last. My face was full of pimples and black-heads. After taking Cascarets they all left. I am continuing the use of them and recommending them to my friends. I feel fine when I rise in the morning. Hope to have a chance to recommend Cascarets." Fred C. Witten, 74 Ella St., Newark, N. J.

20,000 CHILDREN ON OUTING MONDAY

Twenty thousand children—perhaps more—will be entertained at Franklin Field next Monday by the Holy Family Vincentian League of the archdiocese of Boston. They will gather from all over Boston and its environs. Vaudeville performances, acrobatic shows, band concerts, baseball and a dozen other methods of entertainment will be employed to give the guests of the League a day of happiness. The little ones will be taken to and from their homes on trolley cars without charge. Where sick and crippled children are found automobiles will carry them, if possible.

NEGRO LYNCHED FOR TALKING TO GIRLS

EASTMAN, Ga., July 22.—King Green, a negro, had offended the Misses Nicholson, daughters of Samuel Nicholson, a citizen of Eastman. The negro did not lay his hands on either of the young women. He did not make any threats of doing so, but he did grab the reins of their horse and declared that the horse and the buggy in which they were seated belonged to him and that he intended to have them. The women screamed and the negro quit his hold on the horse's head and escaped. Dogs were placed upon his trail, and after a run of several hours he was captured by the sheriff and his deputies. On their return they were intercepted by a crowd of 200 citizens, and the negro was shot to death.

YOUTH TELLS HOW HE TOOK $325 IN SAFE

The case of Harry Stewart, the twelve-year-old East Boston boy who was held up by the Metropolitan police at Revere Beach, where he was spending money freely, was today put over until next Wednesday in the East Boston District Court. Stewart confessed to the police that he had stolen $315 from the safe of John Elms, a stable keeper at No. 25 Gove street, East Boston, June 29, and that he was having a good time with the money.

He was turned over to the Boston authorities, who announced him into court as a delinquent child. Search of Stewart's parents' premises revealed $50.00, two $20 bills were found hidden in a stove at the lover's home. He told the police that the balance of the money was given away or spent. Detective Willard L. Stewart of No. 32 Decatur street, accompanied the boy to court.

The boy told the following story of the theft to the BOSTON AMERICAN:

Boy Tells of Bills.

"I used to hang around Elms's stable a good deal, which is only a short distance from my home. About 2 o'clock June 29, I strolled into Elms's office. No one was there. The door of the safe was open, and inside I could see a big roll of bills. I stepped into the office and took the roll out. Nobody was in sight except a man washing a carriage at the far end of the stable.

"A queer feeling came over me. I turned quickly and took the money. Then I walked out of the stable and hopped on Maverick square. The roll was so big that I lodged in my pocket. I went home and hid part of it in the wood shed, part in the parlor stove, and another part in the cellar of a boy named 'Buffalo.'

"I went to Revere Beach nearly every day since. I gave a good deal of the money to other boys, and I also treated the crowd and had them with me on the cars. The money is all gone. I don't know what I spent it for, myself.

The boy's father said:

Will Make Restitution.

"Harry is not a vicious boy, but he has been surrounded by bad companions. I have always given him what pocket money I could spare and he has been in the habit of going to the beach with that. I did not dream of what he had done until the police came to the house.

"Mr. Elms is very forebearing in the matter. I shall try to make restitution as fast as my means permit."

TAFT APPEALS IN CHINESE LOAN CASE

PEKIN, July 22.—A personal telegram sent by President Taft to Prince Chun, the Chinese Regent, on behalf of the American claim for participation in the $27,500,000 loan for the Hukow-Szechuen Railroad places the matter in a political light and may make it the subject of international diplomatic action.

HARRIMAN'S LIFE STAKE IN MILLION BET

NEW YORK, July 22.—The biggest gambling game in the world to-day is not being played at Monte Carlo or any similar resort, but in the quiet, quaint Austrian village where Edward H. Harriman is seeking to regain his health.

More than a million dollars, it is learned, are staked by frightened financiers here and abroad on the "little wizard's" life.

What unlocked this secret was the news that pool of Wall street operators had just taken out a $1,000,000 policy on the railroad king's existence.

So anxious were they to secure this insurance that they paid $8,000 for its possession, although the policy only runs for one year.

It is also learned that wherever Mr. Harriman goes he is followed by a posse of physicians and detectives who watch his every move and look, who diagnose every word, smile, frown, sigh or laugh with all the high-priced and veteran poker player studies in opponent.

These human shadows are in the employ of the big London and Paris agencies, while reams of reports on Mr. Harriman's health are received daily.

Brokers in this city who accept policies on the life of the railroad king say that the tremendous speculation in Harriman securities is due entirely to the fact that bonds, which would inevitably suffer in case of the railroad king's death, are used as the cause of the present fever to gamble on his life.

"For it is nothing but a gamble," said one of the brokers, "and it has long been in Harriman securities whose fortune would be wiped out by a fall of a few points caused by sinister Harriman news, pays the most. Harriman is entrenched very strongly in the same spirit as he would purchase a stock of goods, because he knows he is an asset or insurance in the thing, but it is only superficial.

"There are no actual tables used as a basis for such a policy. The company that takes it regards it largely as a wager."

LARNED HERE; MAY NOT PLAY TO DEFEND CUP

W. A. Larned, who holds the challenge cup, arrived at Longwood to-day from New York. Mr. Larned is not certain whether he will defend this title or not. A few weeks ago he wrenched his knee, which developed into a slight case of water on the knee.

To-day he will take a little practice with Beals Wright and then he will determine whether he will play.

Clothier had no trouble in winning his match from Putnam to-day, taking three straight sets. In the doubles E. P. Larned and Little won their way into the fifth round by taking three easy sets from Speare and Wales.

Summary

Singles—Fourth Round.

Clothier defeated Putnam, 6—2, 6—2, 6—4.

Singles—Fifth Round.

Paine defeated Davis, 3—6, 6—2, 6—3, 6—2.

Doubles—Fourth Round.

Larned and Little defeated Speare and Wales, 6—4, 6—2, 6—4.

STALLINGS WIRES FOR COLLEGE PLAYER

NEW HAVEN, July 22.—Manager Stallings of the New York Americans to-day telegrapher for Jimmy Savage of the Hartfords to join the Yankees next Thursday. He will be placed at second base. Savage was captain of the Villa Nova College team this Spring, and signed a contract with Arthur Irwin in May to join the New York Americans if needed this Summer.

He got into a scrabble with the Hartford and Waterbury nines of the Connecticut League, and the National Commission may have to straighten out the tangle.

TIGERS' CRACK SHORTSTOP WAS GREENEST EVER

You wouldn't think Ownie Bush, Detroit's sensational short fielder, was once so green he didn't know how to put on a uniform, but he was.

Three years ago this kid, who is now setting the American League on fire, didn't know any more about baseball than a cat knows about calculus.

This was in 1906, mind you. Bush reported to Ed. McKean at Dayton, looking for a job. He was so tiny there didn't seem to be much chance for him. He was quick as a streak of forked lightning, however, and Tommy Smith, now with Shibe of the K. I. O. League, undertook to teach him the finer points of minor league baseball.

Bush drew a locker alongside Smith's and after several days of practice the pair grew chummy. Bush was as full of promise as the air is of ozone after a thunder, and quickly learned how to tag runners without being asked, how to get the ball away fast and other fine points of the infield game.

One day, while dressing, Bush leaned over and whispered to Smith. "Tommy, I don't know how to wear a uniform right. I can get the thing on, but I don't wear it like you fellows. I don't know how to keep my stockings up."

Smith showed him how. "You turn the pants inside out," said Smith, "then put your feet through the knee holes like this, and pull your stockings up as part of the pant leg down over your knee like this. Are you on?"

As Smith talked he illustrated the method used by players to prevent their stockings falling about their feet.

"That's new to me," said Bush. "I've always wondered how a fellow could prevent his stockings falling. I guess I won't look like some sport out in that baseball rig," and he pulled his uniform on under Smith's directions. None of the others knew the kid did not know how to wear his uniform.

Baseball News and Notes

The Athletic have signed Charles Prieur, of the Santa Clara club, for next season. It is a desirable name, and Connie Mack will watch up and how many of them develop into stars.

A Western writer calls attention to the fact that the White Sox have a fine outfield—Jee-bee letter affair—Walsh, Schalk, Smith, Burns and Pease. It's better than the pitchers who are good for only five letters tear for only two innings.

Hans Wagner took time off long enough the other day to get married, for which he is an agent, to Tom Needham.

Among the umpire attention President Pulman has called to the fact that they are not to be partisan. "It's better to be partisan a good man than long on green ones. Harry Pulliam used to say that a man with a few friends" gasped Connie Mack. "Sure."

Jim Raymond threatens to quit the Giants after every ball game. When the latest news for his check he is told that all his pay has been cut off. He has announced that he will go back to the Chicago Nationals, his old home in Chicago, and all that the unruly pitcher can do to gather enough money to get board bill.

Managers of the Rube bands in the big leagues are Waddell, Mamaux, Vickers, Keefe and Olmstead. Others are not one. The Cy are not as numerous. Young and Seymour bring the two most distinguished names of that house.

Billy Doolittle has signed with Toronto. Since leaving the Phillies Billy has worked his way from Atlantic City to Toronto. The baseball documents more often than he has played the pellet.

Waldo is about the same quality of pitcher that he was last year, and then he was considered the best in professional baseball. His speed caught about a lot, and while there are many who object to games pitched by spitball pitchers, the fact is that the contests are usually dead it must be admitted.

Bresnahan has signed Charles Prieur, of the Santa Clara club, for next season. It is a desirable name, and Connie Mack will watch up and how many of them develop into stars.

Clark Griffith of the Cincinnati team, thinks Jimmy Archer, who is catching very good ball for the Chicago Cubs, is about the greatest throwing catcher in the game. The Old Fox says that he has not been in Montana when the Detroit leader of 1907, 1908 and 1909 has never been permitted to leave the American League. Griffith is operating Archer on the side of the fans' rebukes and his work is the sensation of almost every game he takes part in.

Joe Tinker is playing a grand game at short stop for the Cubs. Eight and nine chances a day is his regular work, and he is making very few errors.

Young Cy Young, who is pitching fine ball for Minneapolis, was recently presented with a diamond ring and cut glass decanter by the fans of that city who participated in the big league for his work in the American Association has kept him busy.

The New York American League club has asked for waivers on Jack Chesbro. Were his pitching arm in better condition one of the club left, Willie Keeler.

Birch of the Brooklyns is doing three days' penance for sassing the umpire.

Ban Johnson says Krause is charged with last night's defeat in St. Louis. He filled up the bases, another pitcher comes in and it his for the three that left the game. It would be hard injustice to charge the second pitcher with the defeat.

Mr. Stiles of the Cardinals seems to be considerable of an iron man for work.

SATURDAY GAMES WANTED.

The Chicago of Dorchester would like to arrange games with 17-18-year-old teams. A game for July 30 is wanted. Address Dolph Tiz Sumner street, Boston.

The Eagle Hose Boston would like to arrange a game for Saturday with some fast semi-professional team. Address Manager Eagle, 6 Harvard street, Dorchester.

The Mosastron Boys Club would like a game on Saturday with some 15-16-year-old team. Will exchange for big men given. Charles Hall, 1 Folsom street, Boston.

The H. W. Lineham of South Boston would like to arrange a game for Saturday with some fast home with some 15-year-old team. S. Moore, 616 East Third street.

The Malden White nine would like a game for Saturday with some fast 15-year-old team. Their opponent will be Malden's 15-year-old team. Address Malden 2-15.

The Stanford A. A. would like to arrange a game for Saturday with some fast semi-professional team, away from home. Fair guarantee wanted. A. W. Hartford, Westford, Mass.

The strong Medford team is without a game for Saturday, and would like to hear from some strong semi-professional team away from home. J. A. Farisello, 149 Salem street, Medford.

SUNDAY AMERICAN Want Ads. Bring Monday Morning Returns.

NO $11,000 MEN IN A. A. THIS YEAR

Major league scouts have not been giving a great deal of time to the American Association this season. Some of them have been around, but they have not lingered as they did last season and in years gone by. It is not probable that they are anxious to pay $11,000 prices for men like Rube Marquard and Leslie Durham. Some of the big leagues have been angling for Pitcher Cheney of the Indianapolis club, but it is a good bet that Owner Watkins will not let John T. Brush of the New York Nationals first chance to try to even up for the deal last year.

CHESBRO TO QUIT DIAMOND.

NEW YORK, July 22.—Jack Chesbro, one time premier pitcher of the country, will probably retire from baseball, unless he is chained by one of the major league clubs within a few days. Waivers on the once formidable twirler have been asked by the New York Americans, Chicago club, and, as Chesbro is well-to-do and has a prosperous business in Conway, Mass., he will probably quit the diamond.

WAGNER TO BOX M'GOVERN.

NEW YORK, July 22.—After a week of bickering Joe Wagner and Phil McGovern have agreed to box ten rounds at the Fairmount A. C. within two weeks. They will weigh in at 116 pounds ringside. The winner will be matched with the winner of the Brown-Goldman scrap.

WAGNER MAY SIGN HI.

"Hi Hen" Labelle, who was released by the Utica team of the New York State League, is at his home in Lynn and Billy Hamilton, manager of the Lynn team, may pick him up and use him as one of his regular twirlers.

KETCHEL TO FIGHT SAM IN THE EAST

Sam Langford and Stanley Ketchel are more likely to meet in New York to settle the middleweight championship than out by the Bay shore, according to the present shape of the dope on the match.

In spite of the amount of gold dug out in Nevada, the miners are not the founders of the fight game that they thought they were and by offering too small a purse and failing to give Langford proper consideration the diggers for bucre are likely to be passed up.

The reason for this is the action of the New York, Philadelphia and Pittsburg promoters, who have jumped at the chance to get the plum bout for the championship.

They no sooner heard of the pinguine offer of $25,000 from Ely than they got busy with the managers of both fighters and jangled the size of the purse.

The Fairmount Club of New York is stacked at turning in a $37,000 gate and has it all figured out even if the Driscoll-Morse affair only drew a $16,000 house. Down in Philadelphia, Jack McGuigan believes that he can collect $27,000 easily and if necessary will secure the big ball park to hold the record share. The New Yorkers count on ten rounds, therefore the returns will be greater. Pittsburg is not in line with a substantial offer, which is not far shorter than the ones from Gotham and Slowtown.

The fight will not take place till Labor Day, wherever it is made, the three clubs having to stage it waiting on that date. Ketchel come in at the middleweight limit, Langford at the middleweight limit, Ketchel come in at the middleweight limit, the ring would be cleared, the referee would call the men to the centre and announce the decision of the ringsiders, as there are no decisions given either in New York or Philadelphia.

Ketchel expects to win inside the limit when he does meet Ketchel and so far as his ring generalship will be in need of a decision of any kind.

GOLF GOSSIP NEWS OF THE LINKS

G. H. Crocker who won the Consolation cup, his first prize, at the Essex County club last week, played a seventy-five for the round to Whittemore's low qualifying score of the first day. But a still lower score, although not in the tournament, was made by G. Weil, largest of Essex who played a seventy-four, four strokes under bogey, Saturday afternoon. He was thirty-seven out and in, and played with T. M. Claflin.

It often happens that a high handicap man plays an exceptional round in an open tournament, and rounds it ahead of the scratch men off with the low net prize. A scheme which has many good points has been adopted by the Hatuxeo Golf Club, which has all net scores under seventy-four to be considered scratch, and the Class A men in this week and all old well in the open tourney, while some are still in the running at that.

Next Saturday the Crow Point Golf Club will hold its second annual open tournament. The opening event last year was pretty much a drawn game, but with the handicap by a boy's youngest hope with better weather the best golf should be played. Five very beautiful prizes have been offered for the following accomplishments: Best gross, best net, second best net, best gross, second best, selected nine. The course is in good condition and the location is unsurpassed as it is almost on the ocean's edge at Hingham.

EDDIE COLLINS IS LEAGUE'S SENSATION

Eddie Collins, the Columbia University graduate, who was carried for two years as a utility player by Connie Mack, and now the regular second baseman of the Athletics, is the sensation of the league. In sixty-four games he has made ninety-six hits, scored thirty-eight runs, made seven doubles, six triples and one home run, besides stealing twenty bases. His batting average is .375, and he bids fair to become the youthful collegian is playing a fast fielding game.

CRITERION A. A. AFTER GAME

Owing to cancellation, the fast Criterion A. A. is without a game for July 24, and would like to arrange a game with any fast eighteen-year-old team in the State. The team has won fourteen games and lost one. The Brank Rock team preferred. Write to Frank Killion, No. 99 Gainsboro street, suite 4, Boston, Mass.

YACHT FLEET CRUISE HELD UP BY THE FOG

BOOTHBAY HARBOR, Me., July 22.—This harbor is fog-banked this morning and the run of the Boston Yacht Club eastward is in the air at 1 ate hour. Where the yachts will go is a question. If the fog lifts Commander Alfred Douglas has ordered a run to Port Clyde, but there will be a run in any event and the signals are for a trip to Pemaquid, eight miles away.

The cruising abilities of the yachts are still in the air as far as settling respective abilities in each class are concerned.

Tuesday's work of the flagship Shiyesna, sailed by Commodore Douglass, in leading the fleet into this harbor over the Golden Rod, sailed by George E. Bruce, puts her in the Bluelight in her class.

The Marie L, by leading the fleet into Portland put her in line for premier honors, and conditions were again changed yesterday when the Al Kyris, sailed by A. L. Moody and carrying all the newspaper men, went over the line ahead and winner in her class.

The Clique, sailed by Commodore R. P. Dyer of the Portland Yacht Club, did not race and remains an unknown, but is figured on to meet every possible existing condition that can arise and is in line to meet the big boats.

In the regatta under the auspices of the Boothbay Yacht Club and the Boston Yacht Club in this harbor when the returns shall be received, Fulton, Jr., of Boston, won from the Marie L., sailed by George Lee, but put the real speed of the Class A boats in the air and to-day's run of the fleet will be important, as it will do much to settle the much mooted question of respective speed.

In the classes for small boats the win of Al Kyris has placed her in a position of being superior to the yachts of her class and one more win will settle her as the premier yacht of her class.

The fleet has been joined in the harbor by a score of yachts and started out this morning larger than ever, and at least eighty sailing boats go over the line.

The health of all on the cruise is perfect and receptions all along the line have been great.

NOTES OF THE GAME.

The Reds used up three pitchers. Camp held started, Dubuc took up the duties, and then Castleton finished.

* * *

The Dutchies cut-bit the Dodgers, but they didn't get them knocked very well.

* * *

Stem ripped off a dandy double in the fourth inning which scored three runs. It was certainly a timely wallop.

* * *

Shean got his first hit since becoming a Dove yesterday when he got two runs. He did nice work in the field.

* * *

Catcher Roth replaced Larry McLean behind the bat in the last half of the game.

* * *

Miller Higgins, the midget infielder, who is infielding on the Reds' bench just at present, went to bat for Dubuc in the seventh inning and lifted one into Coffey's hands.

* * *

Miller was the man with the big stick and got three singles out of four attempts. He was the only man in the game who got more than one safe drive.

* * *

The only drawback to young Siner is his first name. New Hosses may sound well out in the Middle West, but he can't get by with that in Boston, and rewards are being offered for the best nickname.

HARD DAY'S RUN BY GLIDDEN TOUR OVER ROUGH ROADS

DOUBLE CENTURY RUN FOR GLIDDEN TOUR CARS

By J. C. KERRISON.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Ia., July 22.—A double century, the largest single day mileage ever experienced in a Glidden tour is down on the boards for to-day. The men and machines who yesterday negotiated something like 196 miles, bare now the pleasure of going the total one better, and by the time Kearney is reached the mileage will have been increased to 202 miles.

Whether it will result in such a disastrous cutting down of the clean score cars as was the case yesterday remains to be seen. The wise ones, however, contend that there will be something doing in that line and are even picking out the cars they figure will suffer penalization.

In the work of the run here no less than eight cars received points against them and of that number at least six were clean when they left Fort Dodge.

There was some really hard and fast going and while the accidents happened to the A. A. A. tourists, the American Press car witnessed at least two which might have proven decidedly serious.

Two Lives Saved.

Dee McIntosh, driving the Studebaker Garford which is carrying the BOSTON AMERICAN flag, just outside of Dunlap came upon a Ford touring car which was turned completely over, and beneath which were a man and his wife.

The press party soon had the people from under the car, and after first aid to the injured was given them the Ford car was righted and the man and wife were carried back some four miles to Dunlap and placed in the care of a physician.

The woman was severely cut about the head and face and apparently had dislocated her shoulder, while the man was badly bruised and injured about the body.

Later McIntosh stopped and assisted a woman with a fractious horse that had broken the buggy shafts.

Press Car Falls by Wayside.

The first car to fall by the wayside was the second Studebaker press car, which got caught in a slough about one miles outside of Fort Dodge. A wrecking train and crew were alongside the road, and the engineer rigged a steel cross and pulled the car out of the mud with the utmost ease.

A few miles further along the Glide, a clean score Glidden car, fell into a some what similar predicament, and in endeavoring to get out of the rut, scrambled and cracked her steering gear.

Later, three miles outside of Council Bluffs, this knuckle gave way, and for replacing the same got a penalization of 1.0.

The second clean score Glidden car to be penalized was the Jewell, which received a penalty of sixteen points for replacing bag flange bolts.

Ewing Is Penalized.

The Marmon, driven by Frank Ewing of Boston, also fell from grace, the total penalty awarded him being eight points for time in repairing his gasoline feed pipe. The lead broke off at the gasoline tank and a repair was necessary.

It was rather a singular little thing, but a most disagreeable one, which mechanically the car has worked perfectly. Still this is not to be considered a fatal blow as there are many miles yet to be covered and there are but seven clean score cars and there are but eight clean score cars contenders for the title.

They are the two Pierces, two Premiers, Marmon, Thomas, Maxwell and the White Kerosene. These are the cars which are and will attract the greatest of attention from now on. The Maxwell, by the way, is the cheapest car as regard price left in any of the contests.

The White Steamer has up to date shown excellent efficiency with its kerosene burner.

In the contest for the Detroit trophy, the Premier, driven by Waltman, was penalized eight points for repairing gasoline lead pipe, leaving the American Simplex and the Chalmers to fight the battle alone.

Big Welcome to Tourists.

In the Flower Trophy contest, two Moline's and the Jewell were penalized, leaving the clean score cars in that class, two Pierces, one Chalmers, one Moline and one Lexington.

Upon the arrival of the tourists in this city they were given a royal welcome by the Council Bluffs Automobile Club, through whose courtesy they received cards to the leading local clubs, a trip up the lake and a swim in the lake, the whole winding up with a banquet at the hotel.

None of the men lost any time in getting under way for Kearney this morning and by 7:30 o'clock cars would hardly have been missed at the A. A. A. tour had been in the city. The special train of Pullman cars pulled out immediately after the cars departed and the Hotel De Soto, which has proven satisfactory up to date, moved on its way.

Of the clean score cars nine are equipped with Goodrich, five with Diamond and one with Ajax tires.

CLOTHIER BEST ON LONGWOOD COURTS

The elimination process will continue on the Longwood courts to-day in the struggle for the big tennis cup. The choice players, Clothier, Niles, E. P. Larned, Johnson and Little, are still winning, and are expected to come through to-day. One of the big tests of the day is on this afternoon at 3 o'clock, when Niles, the Harvard star, meets E. P. Larned, the result having some bearing on the outcome of the tournament.

Clothier and H. C. Johnson are playing such wonderful tennis in the Eastern doubles that they should win that event in the final round, and are expected to be the

MURPHY WOULDN'T SELL JOHN KLING

President Murphy of the Chicago National League team was very emphatic in declaring that neither the Brooklyn Club nor any other club in the country could get Catcher John Kling. "I wouldn't take $50,000 for Kling," said Mr. Murphy. "Not that he is worth that much, but there is a principle involved in the matter, and I propose to stand firm. Mr. Ebbets made me a generous offer for Kling, and if the case were an ordinary one I should have let him up to Brooklyn. But Kling has not acted in a sportsmanlike manner to the Chicago Club, and I have come to the conclusion that he must play with the club for which I am the head or with none at all."

NO TEAM TO SEATTLE.

NEW YORK, July 22.—It was officially announced to-day that the Irish American A. C. would not send a team to the National championships at Seattle. It has caused considerable discussion in athletic circles. The much-looked-for triple meet between the Irish-American A. A., New York A. C. and Chicago A. A. at Chicago on August 7 is also off.

STRAIGHT DOPE FOR SPORT FANS

OLD JOHN BARLEY CORN CARRIES a wallop that will make the best of them take the count if he isn't treated right. Young Griffo was a real fighter in his day and made a barrel of money, but friends in Australia have just notified Mayor Busse of Chicago that they will bear the expense incidental to sending him back to his old home in Australia. Griffo has been living from hand to mouth in the Windy City for several years. He has been sent to the insane asylum several times and is a wreck. His friends in Sydney have collected enough money to pay for his passage home. The once great boxer is a gray-haired old man now, a victim of strong drink.

JACK JOHNSON IS QUOTED AS SAYING that he will bet $1,000 that Jeffries does not post a forfeit at any time and another $1,000 that the boilermaker will not fight again. The negro's confidence is due to the fact that he posted a $10,000 forfeit while Jeffries was in Chicago recently and that the latter ignored it. I'll bet a million that Johnson has Jeff eased out right.

Dear Sir—I had an argument with a friend on the subject of prize fighting. I hold that when a man is knocked unconscious it is a disgrace for him to admit it and refuse to take further punishment. A man should not be disgraced for quitting under such circumstances. How about this?

The referee is supposed to know when a man is hopelessly outclassed and is taking unnecessary punishment. It is his business to stop such a fight, for some men are game to the limit of foolhardiness. Caesar Attell, the noblest Roman of them all, never waited for any referee to tell him when he had too much. As a result, they said that never had a streak as wide as the South Station.

"How would a referee know how much I was hurt?" asked Caesar. "Leave that to me. I know."

E. S. M.—CHARLES STREET, A catcher on the Washington team, is the only man who ever caught a baseball dropped from the Washington monument. The ball was dropped from a point near the 550 feet from the ground. It was strong wind was blowing and it was not until twelve balls had been missed that he was successful. It is estimated that the ball was travelling at the rate of 135 feet per second when it landed in his mitt. The fact that the missed balls bounded nearly fifty feet in the air will give you some idea of the velocity.

Straight Dope, Boston American.
Will you please inform me if there is a man signed up with the Boston Americans named Foster. Also whether there is a fixed salary limit for ball players.
J. A. T.

No ball player named Foster is signed up with the Boston Red Sox. There is no salary limit in the big leagues, but in the minors there is a fixed limit.

A KICK HAS BEEN REGISTERED here about some one trying to kid the young baseball managers of Boston. The sort of knock some young man is needing out, it is alleged, costs these amateur base ball leaders two cents every throw. That's not much, but every little bit, etc.

The kick was to the effect that J. Ruby, who claimed to be manager of the "Boston Grays," was issuing challenges for any and the Kicker said that to his knowledge there was no such team and that Ruby should not print challenges in any of the papers where he had no team to accept answers to the desk.

How about it, Ruby?

OVER IN PHILADELPHIA THE FANS are uttering piercing cries of joy over the acquisition of Johnny Bates and seem to think they hung one on the Dove manager when the deal went through. One writer in Dreamland says:

Baseball shows believe that Bill Murray has made a great deal in securing Johnny Bates, a recent item of Johnny Bates, the peaks outfielder, and Charley Starr, an infielder of possibilities, for Eddie Phillips, Brown and Richie and infielder Sloan in return.

Maybe so, maybe no, but as the poet says, "time alone will tell."

The Lowell Independents, one of the star semi-pro clubs, has been busily signing players of late. Games are booked for August 7, 14, 28 and one or two games for August 21. Games come from Iowa for reasonable dates preferred. Teams preferred are: Biddeford, Saco, Portland, Me., Atlantics of Quincy, Middleboro, Wakefield, Hopedale, Fitchburg.

FRED LAKE IS RUNNING THE RED Sox almost as well as I could, so I'm not going to give him any advice in the matter. Here's a boost for Tommy Madden, the local catcher, which I'm printing because Tommy is a good fellow and has a lot of friends:

Way not give Tom Madden, the Roxbury

Restore Nature's cushion to the feet. Have pair fitted to your vacation shoes and feel like a millionaire.

If man would walk naturally, walk as nature intended, he must go barefooted, and the streets must be carpeted and hourly swept and inspected that the naked foot may receive no injury.

There does not appear to be much danger of the streets being carpeted, and even if they were the weather would not encourage barefootedness.

If we would walk naturally, the only practical and economical way is to wear O'Sullivan's Heels of Live Rubber. By having them attached to the shoe they return to the human foot the elasticity of nature.

The Rubber Heel shod man walks as easily upon the paved streets as he would walk barefooted across carpeted floors.

When ordering Rubber Heels on your boots specify O'Sullivan's "Live Rubber Heels," so the dealer can't work off substitutes made of junk rubber.

Junk Rubber is stuff that has been devulcanized or re-melted over and over again and has lost its resiliency and durability, and does not answer the original mission of our Live Rubber Cushion.

Substitutes made of this Junk Rubber leave the dealer eight cents more profit, that's why he tells you his little story that they are Just as good as O'Sullivan's.

Reliable shoe dealers everywhere will supply you with O'Sullivan's at 50c, but it's just as well to order by the name and show them you know.

Boxing News in Brief Form

Jim Barry is on his way West, where he will negotiate a long string of matches. He will go to the mountains for two months to battle with Jeffries and then to the big Jeffries. Barry is willing to meet Kaufman, Johnson, Ketchel, Langford or Gardner.

Barry tells an interesting story of how he lost to Mc Vey. Pete was on a bad drunk and Jim was down and came up like a cyclone. Pete was knocked out in the first round, but can not claim that Barry was responsible for the defeat. Barry had nothing on Pete when they met the other.

The two fights Tom McCarey pulled off last week in Providence failed to draw as well as expected and the promoter got from one end of the ring to the other. Both fights were fast and furious, but lacked the punch that counts. That the fight would draw an immense crowd, and no ringside weighing in is not fair to the public. Lewis should console the few fans.

Young Corbett now has the chance to get Nelson in a fight for the championship. His one remaining opponent is Gans. Gans has had a number of chances, but being a fast in twenty battles and meeting some of the toughest men in the East.

Beating down Corbett in eight rounds has boosted Dearing's stock in the eastern ring, and he will be given a chance to show his class. Dearing is a fast boy and with Corbett out of the way he will be given a chance to meet Willie Lewis while Pitzer and Hoke Kid Brady will battle for the lightweight championship of Pittsburg. There is a possibility of Pitzer being matched with Packey McFarland.

Jack Britton, the clever Chicago lightweight, is getting his share of matches. He has been matched to meet Jack Blackburn, the Lowell boy, at Lowell, Aug. 1. Britton has also been matched to meet Jack Dillon at Pittsburg, Aug. 4. Dillon is a clever boy and has been boxing in Pittsburg for some time. He has a number of friends in Pittsburg who are willing to back him against Britton.

Jack Dillon, the Indianapolis middleweight, is matched to meet Jack Blackburn, the Lowell boy, at Lowell, Aug. 1. Britton has also been matched to meet Jack Dillon at Pittsburg, Aug. 4. Dillon is a clever boy and has been boxing in Pittsburg for some time. He has a number of friends in Pittsburg who are willing to back him against Britton.

BOSTON AMERICANS DOUBLE

Unchristian "Thrift" That Curtails Life

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX.

Copyright, 1909, by American-Journal-Examiner.

Morning Prayer

LET me to-day do something that shall take
A little sadness from the world's vast store,
And may I be so favored as to make
Of joy's too scanty sum a little more.

Let me not hurt, by any selfish deed
Or thoughtless word, the heart of foe or friend;
Nor would I pass, unseeing, worthy need,
Or sin by silence when I should defend.

However meagre be my wordly wealth,
Let me give something that shall aid my kind,
A word of courage, or a thought of health,
Dropped as I pass for troubled hearts to find.

Let me to-night look back across the span
'Twixt dawn and dark, and to my conscience say—
Because of some good act to beast or man—
"The world is better that I lived to-day."

NOT many years ago a sensation was caused by the discovery that occupants of certain dives and other inmoral houses obtained a very large income from good church-going people, on whose property these houses were situated.

The good church people lived far from the locality, and all the business was transacted through agents. Yet they had known of the traffic in crime which thrived on their premises, and they had accepted the money which came in this manner, without a protest.

It has been the habit of these orthodox Christians to indulge in prayer morning and night, and to say grace before each meal.

They were continually asking God to bless them; to prosper them; to bless their neighbors; to lift humanity to a higher spiritual plane; and to hasten the coming of the great day when all the world would be christianized.

Yet they personally were helping to lower the standard of humanity; were encouraging the commerce of crime, and injuring whole communities by the spirit of avarice which permitted them to accept tainted money.

Many Tempted by Money.

Scattered all over our great land are Christian men and women who believe they are living moral lives, and who are pillars of churches and charitable organizations. Yet when the Money Devil tempts them, they are not always ready to follow the example of the Master.

New England breeds a type of men and women who are generally known as "thrifty."

Elsewhere the spirit which constitutes this thrift is known as "accumulative," and "money loving."

In New England there are many families who live the simple life, while possessing ample fortunes. Models of good behavior, they are ever ready to help charities.

They approve of education, missions and reforms, but discourage costly accomplishments; and while they enjoy the comforts and decencies of life, they abjure the luxuries and elegancies as worldly and unnecessary.

Small economies are to them as natural as the breath of life, and display a horror of their frugal natures. Their love of money is wholly one of power. Only their avoidance of enjoyment of what it brings to them.

New England families of this type have been known to devote their whole leisure and prosperity of a whole community to renting property to which is still included "Public No sense Treats."

Vast discomfort, heartbreak and unnecessary physical distress and financial losses all resulted to the community by this fact.

The law appealed to, ceased to be a force toward justice, but the bountiful heart of one Summer was never pictured by reading

Still another Boston man has gone elsewhere for his bride, and the interesting announcement has just been made of the engagement of Dr. Arthur Brewster Emmons, 2d, of this city and Miss Louise Anderson Hickok, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Hickok, Jr., of Harrisburg, Pa. The wedding is set for September and will take place at the summer home of the prospective bride's parents at Bedford, Pa. Dr. Emmons graduated from Harvard University in 1903, and from the Harvard Medical School in 1902. He was house surgeon at the Massachusetts General Hospital in 1904-05 and house officer at the Boston Lying-in Hospital in the latter year. At the Boston City Hospital he was resident pathological house officer during 1906 and 1907. Since that time he has been on the staff of the Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore.

One of the most interesting matrimonial events of August will be the marriage on the 1st of Miss Gabriella M. Dexter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley W. Dexter, to Thomas W. Pierce of Topsfield. Miss Dexter, who is considered quite a society belle, made her debut two years ago. Her mother was a McAllister, and she is a niece of Ward McAllister. Her sisters are Mrs. Conlin McC. Ingersoll and Miss Julia McAllister. The family is prominently identified with South Hampton and Oyster Bay, where Stanley Dexter owns a beautiful country home. After their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Pierce will live at Topsfield.

BILLS AT THEATRES

Dick Conlon in his famous role of "Shorty" in a feature at Keith's Theatre this week. Next week the fair Fadettes begin their stay.

"Joan of Arc," which is having great success at the Orpheum Theatre, is to be continued there for another week, owing to repeated requests for a continuance of that production.

Professor Dodd and his talking dogs, the Lolita Dwyer Trio, Mead and Trow, the Russian ring experts and new songs and pictures are at the Globe.

"A Montana Outlaw" is at the Bowdoin Square for the remainder of the week, to be superseded Monday by "Wealth and Poverty."

The New Palace Theatre has a lively bill of vaudeville, songs and moving pictures. A change in the song and picture bill goes on to-day.

The bill at the Hub Theatre is one of the best of the season. To-day the usual mid-week change in songs and pictures takes place.

Between the new bill by the Manhattan Girls in the theatre hall and the new exhibits in the curio hall there is much of interest at Austin & Stone's Museum.

Paragon Park is breaking records for average daily attendance. The Palm Garden and the free circus are special attractions there.

E. Hasson and Miss Jenny, direct from the Circus Schumann in Berlin, head the strong bill at Norumbega Park Theatre for this week.

Splendid catches are reported from the fishing trips of the steamer King Philip, which sails at 10 a. m. daily from Commercial Wharf.

A special trolley leaves Post Office square at 2:30 p. m. daily, except Sunday, for Providence and Fall River, connecting with the New York boats.

Deerfoot Sailing on the steamer Ralcliffe is in high favor this Summer. The boat sails from Central wharf daily and Sunday at 10 a. m.

Joy line travel to New York by rail and boat is reported heavy this Summer.

Steamers for Bass Point and Nahant, giving a cooling trip across the harbor, sail from Otis wharf on nearly hourly schedule.

Automobile parties are going to Point of Pines now in large numbers, that resort having many new attractions now.

Gloucester and Cape Ann trips up the North Shore are of more than usual interest on account of the presence of President Taft's family at Beverly.

Passengers on the Provincetown steamer Cape Cod have a splendid view of the North Atlantic fleet now manoeuvring at Cape Cod.

WHAT DO YOU THINK?

A RESIDENT of an up-State village recently paid his first visit to the seaside. There he saw a half-ton anchor lying on the beach. He looked astonished and sat down close beside it. It was early in the morning, but he remained there all day, not moving from the spot even to get something to eat.

At last an old sailor's curiosity was aroused.

"Ain't yer tired o' sittin' there, my friend?" he asked kindly. "It's none too warm to-day."

"Well," drawled the visitor. "I do feel pretty tired, I'll allow; but I mean to see the man who can handle that pickaxe if I watch for him a whole week."

* * *

"Hello!" said Borem. "I just thought I'd drop in on you to-day to——"

"I thought you would, too," interrupted Morcean.

"You did? Now, that's strange, because——"

"Not at all; this is the busiest day I have had for weeks."

Percy the Press Agent

He Refuses to Be Dignified, Even for the Show Girl

By HANK

"WHY aren't you more dignified, Percy?" asked the Show Girl as she smoothed the ketchup over her beans and stabbed a piece of ham with her fork.

"Why don't you get up on your ear sometimes?" she went on petulantly, "you're always lettin' people walk over you without lettin' out a peep. You give me a pain."

"Thank you," replied Percy. "Words like them comin' from the one who has promised to cherish your affections and call you her meal ticket for life certainly do a whole lot to help things along."

"I didn't mean to hurt your feelings," said the Show Girl, "an' I guess you're worth takin' a chance on, but a little dignity wouldn't detract any from your other charms."

"I was dignified once," Percy said earnestly. "But I was fired—cured good by the Deacon."

"The Deacon," exclaimed the Show Girl, "you mean that newspaper guy that's always playin' practical jokes?"

"That's the one," said Percy, sadly. "He got me good and plenty. I was walking down Washington street one day when I saw the Deacon beating it past me. I grabbed him by the arm and tried to squeeze his bunch of fives, but he put his hand behind his back and let out a string of talk that almost paralyzed me.

"'Look here, young feller,' he started off just as if he'd never seen me before, 'I know my name is Deacon Perry, and I'm from Jackson's Corners, but, gosh all hemlock, I'm on to yew bunco fellers.'"

When He Met the Deacon

"Chee!" the Show Girl gasped after taking a drink of water, "I'd like to have seen it. The Deacon always did look like a farmer, didn't he?"

"Yes," said Percy, "he had me fooled. I told him to cut out his kiddin', but he commenced talkin' loud, and soon we had a crowd around us. Pretty soon a cop butts in to know what the trouble is.

"This feller is one of them bunco chaps," he tells the cop, as brazen as brass, 'the side partner met me just now an' pretended he knew me—called me Uncle Silas. I told him that wasn't my name—an' that I was Deacon Percy from Jackson's Corners, an' sure enough, as soon as I walks a couple of squares, this bunco feller hops up an' says, 'Hullo, Deacon,' having learned my name from the other feller. They can't fool me any more. They did it once.'

"Didn't you tell the cop who you was?" asked the Show Girl.

"Sure, a dozen times," answered Percy, "but it didn't do no good."

"Well, was you pinched?" asked the Show Girl.

"I sure was," said Percy. "The Deacon insisted upon making a complaint and the cop started to lead me away with a mob. We had walked about a block when the Deacon stopped and grew greatly excited.

"'Gee Whillikens!' he hollers to the cop; 'Hey, Mr. Constable, wait a minit. I'll be gosh danged if there ain't the other bunco feller I met.'

"With that he beats it across Washington street. We stood still and watched him. As soon as he got in the park he turns around and puts his finger to his face in an unmistakable sign, and then runs as hard as he could. The cop was wise to the game in a minute, and, seein' he had been fooled, drops me and beats it after the Deacon. But, darn him, he got away."

"Did you ever get even with him?" asked the Show Girl.

"None," replied Percy. "I never tried to. It taught me a lesson. Dignity, my dear, is all right when you're a judge or a cop, and have something to back it up with. But for common folk it's a cloak over your real self that gets moth holes in it the first time a small boy soaks you in the neck with a snowball or you try to give an 'L' guard an argument."

"But it does become some people," persisted the Show Girl.

"Accompanied by a big corporation and a five-carat shirt stud, it does," Percy assented, "but put a dignified fat guy in a bathing suit and let a wave hit him, and he'll look like a wet piece of cheese. None of it for mine, Kid. Good-night."

Chill of the Eve

By JAMES STEPHENS

A LONG, green swell
Slopes soft to the sea,
And a far-off bell
Swings sweet to me,
As the gray, chill day
Slips away from the lea.

SPREAD cold and far,
Without one glow
From a mild pale star,
Is tac sky's steel bow,
And the gray, chill day
Slips away below.

THAT green tree grieves
To the air around,
And the whispering leaves
Have a lonely sound,
As the gray, chill day
Slips away from the ground.

THE long grass bends
With a rippling rush
To the soft, white winds
Where the roots are lush,
And the gray, chill day
Slips away in a hush.

DOWN by the shore
The slow waves twine
From the rock-strewn floor
To the shell-edged line,
And the gray, chill day
Slips away with a whine.

AND dark, more dark,
The shades settle down,
Far off is a spark
From the lamp-lit town,
And the gray, chill day
Slips away with a frown.

The One Price System

By ELBERT HUBBARD

THE greatest change in modern business came with the One Price System. This has been about since the Civil War.

The old idea was for the seller to get as much as he possibly could for everything he sold. Short weight, short count and dishonesty in quality were considered quite right and proper. When you bought chickens from a farmer if you did not discover the stone inside the turkey when you weighed it and paid for it, there was no redress.

The lunch was on you. And, moreover, a legal maxim—caveat emptor—"let the buyer beware," made cheating legally safe. Dealers in clothing guaranteed neither fit nor quality, and everything you paid for, once wrapped up and in your hands, was yours beyond recall—"Let the buyer beware."

A few hundred years ago business was transacted mostly through fairs, ships, and by peddlers. Your merchant of that time was a peripatetic rogue who reduced prevarication to a system.

The fairs gradually evolved into a store, with the methods of the irresponsible keeper intact. The merchants cheated their neighbors and chuckled in glee, until their neighbors cheated them, which, of course, they eventually did. Then they cursed each other, began again and did it all over.

John Quincy Adams tells of a certain deacon who kept a store near Boston, who always added in the year 1775 at the top of a column, as seventeen dollars and seventy-five cents.

The amount of misery, grief, disappointment, shame, distress, woe, anguish and hate, caused by a system which wrapped one thing when the buyer expected another, and took advantage of his innocence and ignorance as to quality and value, cannot be computed in figures.

Suffice it to say that duplicity in trade was had to go. The self-preservation of the race demanded honesty, square dealing, one price to all.

To make a sale and acquire an enemy is poor policy. To a peddler or a man who ran a booth at a bazaar or fair it was "get your money now or never." Buyer and seller were at war. One transaction and they never met again. The air was full of hate and suspicion, and the savage propensity of physical destruction was refined to a point where hypocrisy and untruth took the place of violence. The buyer was as bad as the seller—if he could buy below cost he boasted of it. To catch a merchant who had to have money was glorious—we smote him hip and thigh. Later we discovered that, being strangers, he took us in.

The One-Price system has come as a necessity, since it reduces the friction of life and protects the child or simple person in the selection of things needful, just the same as if the buyer were an expert in values and a person who could strike back if imposed upon. Safety, peace and decency demanded the One Price System. When we get to the point where we see that all men are brothers, we have absolute honesty and One Price.

And so behold! we find the Government making favoritism in trade a crime and enforcing the One-Price System by law, and just remember this, law is the crystallization of public opinion, and no law that is not backed up by the will of the people can be enforced.

It is quite as necessary that you should eat good food as that you should read good books, hear good music, hear good sermons or look upon beautiful pictures.

The necessary is the sacred. There are no menial tasks. "He that is the greatest among you shall be your servant." The physical reacts on the spiritual and the spiritual on the physical, and rightly understood, are one and the same thing.

We have ceased to separate the secular from the sacred. That is sacred which serves. Once a business man was a person who not only thrived by taking advantage of the necessities of the people, but who banked on their ignorance of values. But all wise men now know that the way to help ourself is to help humanity.

We benefit ourselves only as we benefit others. And the recognition of these truths is what has to-day placed the Business Man in the forefront of the learned professions. He ministers to the necessities of humanity.

Just for the Fun of It

OF COURSE NOT

DURING a banquet a certain bishop had, as his left-hand companion, a clergyman who was completely bald.

During the dessert the bald-headed vicar dropped his serviette and stopped to pick it up. At this moment the bishop, who talked with his right-hand neighbor, felt a slight touch on his left arm. He turned and, beholding the vicar's pate on a level with his elbow, said:

"No, thank you; no melon!"

* * *

HE SPRINTED

"THE last time I gave you money," said the kindly old lady, "you promised you wouldn't walk right into a saloon and spend it."

"That's right, lady," said the tramp.

"Yes, but as soon as you got the money you did."

"Say, lady, don't you know the difference between a walk and a sprint?"

LANDLORD WINS AGAIN

A BIG, burly man called on the wife of a country rector the other day.

"Madam," he said, "I wish to draw your attention to the sad case of a poor family. The father is too old to work, the mother is bedridden and the five children are crying for bread. To sum up all, the poor little creatures are about to be turned into the street unless some one pays their arrears of rent amounting to £20."

"How terrible," said the lady. "Here is the money for the rent. I ask you who you are?"

"Certainly madame"—as he disappeared through the gate—"I am the landlord."

OR NOT AT ALL

LAND OWNER—You didn't pay the rent of the field last month.

Secretary of Cricket Club—No? Well, I suppose you'll hold us to our agreement?

Land Owner—Agreement? What agreement do you mean?

Secretary of the Cricket Club—Why, when we took the field you said we must pay in advance or not at all.

The Best Holstein Milk
Six Cents Per Quart

The housewife who buys Van Camp's by the case—in 10-cent cans—gets the best milk in America at about six cents per quart. Note the vast economy.

Most of the cost of milkman's milk lies in the cost of daily delivery. That's why Van Camp's undersells it.

But the economical way to buy Van Camp's is in the 10-cent cans. You get one-third more for your money than in any 5-cent cans.

And Van Camp's is cheapest when bought by the case. Ask your grocer to quote the case discount.

Pure Holstein Milk

Holstein cows are the result of 2,000 years of good breeding.

They are healthy cows with enormous vitality. And that vitality is conveyed to the milk.

Van Camp's is simply rich Holstein milk, with two-thirds the water evaporated.

It is not like condensed milk, which is nearly half sugar. Van Camp's is nothing but milk.

Our evaporating plants are located in six states, and all are close to our dairies.

The fresh milk is there placed in a vacuum. And a very moderate heat, because of that vacuum, throws off the water in steam.

Thus we eliminate two-thirds of the water, simply to reduce the bulk. Then the milk is sterilized. That's the only method used to preserve it.

Ten Cents per Pint

The tall 10-cent can of Van Camp's contains a full pint—sixteen ounces of evaporated milk.

This milk is 28 per cent solids—8 per cent better fat. It is as thick as the thickest cream.

This pint can, when the water is replaced, gives about three pints of rich Holstein milk.

And that rich milk will cost you about 6 cents per quart, if you buy Van Camp's by the case.

For we save what the milkman spends to make daily deliveries. And we save two-thirds the cost of handling by taking out two-thirds the water.

A Cow in the Kitchen

Another advantage in Van Camp's Milk lies in having the cow in the kitchen.

Rich milk or cream whenever you want it. No waiting for the milkman, no running to the grocer.

Don't buy Van Camp's from day to day, as you would milkman's milk. Buy it by the case and get the case discount. And have the milk always on hand.

Van Camp's will keep for years, in the sealed can, as fresh as the day you buy it.

Serves Every Purpose

Van Camp's serves every purpose for which you use raw milk or cream. It is far better than raw milk for any.

It comes to you as thick as thick cream—so thick that you add one part water for coffee.

For use on cereals, reduce it one-half. For drinking, reduce it to suit the taste. The best way to reduce it, especially for babies, is to add hot water.

When Van Camp's is drunk cold, it has a slight almond flavor due to sterilization. It is a delicious flavor; and when one thinks that it means germless milk, the taste becomes doubly enticing.

That flavor is lost when the milk is heated, for the flavor comes from heat. The flavor of Van Camp's, when used for cooking or coffee, is exactly the same as raw milk or cream, save for additional richness.

Best for Cooking

In the making of milk dishes, Van Camp's Milk is twice as good as raw milk.

The reason is this: In milkman's milk you rarely get the whole milk. The butter fat rises and the solids fall, so you get a different milk from each part of the can.

When you skim this milk, as is often done in cooking, you take out most of the butter fat left. So the raw milk used in making milk dishes is rarely more than a half-milk.

In Van Camp's you get the whole milk—all the butter fat and all the solids of the richest Holstein milk.

Thus it gives to milk dishes a richness and flavor which one never can get without it. Just prove this once, in a milk dish, and you'll never go back to raw milk.

300,000 Cans per Day

People are now using about 300,000 cans of Van Camp's per day—a hundred million cans per year.

Every day we milk about 25,000 cows.

You will know the reason if you compare Van Camp's with any other evaporated milk. Every can of Van Camp's is 28 per cent butter fat and solids, yet it costs no more than the poorest.

Van Camp's is sold in 5 and 10-cent cans—at your grocer's. We recommend the 10-cent cans for your economy. It is put up at our dairies in six states by the Van Camp Packing Co., Indianapolis, Ind.

Seventh Day Wonder of New England

INCOME TAX IS OPPOSED BY BREWER

MILWAUKEE, July 22.—In his address before the Association of Agents of the Northwestern Mutual Life Company, of which he is a trustee, Justice David J. Brewer, of the United States Supreme Court, said:

Under the bue and cry of to-day we must have an income tax, which means a tax upon all income, and if that power to tax all income is given the Government, we will see the States taxed out of their existence, but out of their vitality. The idea leads up to the question of placing the entire power in the hands of the nation, and the State is left out of the matter.

The Justice's speech was impromptu and touched on various topics. Referring to the public debt, he said:

At the close of the Civil War we began paying the debt of that war and we kept on paying it. Now, in the same attitude the political leaders and the President, who speak of "Me and My Navy," we have piled up public debts for vessels which will rust before they are used.

So far as possible, I believe that every generation should pay its own debts. We should not pile up debts for the future to take care of. The only thing we should be guarded against is the wickedness of the bankers and Wall Street speculators who occasionally get up a panic. The ability is going to require of us to continue to strive and do our best and we shall yet see the future of honest men doing honest business. We had ten years of unprecedented prosperity until the late financial depression, and we can have it again. But we must all exercise honesty and fairness to all men.

We have great questions that we must meet as we go along, those questions—the negro question, for instance—we must meet and solve. There is a negro question that we in the North cannot control. This question must be controlled by our friends in the South, and it is our duty to encourage them in its solution.

LEADING BOSTON CITIZENS FAVOR AN INCOME TAX

The income tax amendment to the constitution proposed by President Taft continues to receive indorsement by Boston men of prominence.

It is evident that those depending on Massachusetts as one of the twelve States to defeat the amendment will have to be disappointed.

In the search for opinions of leading citizens it develops that men identified with the Republican State machine are cautiously waiting before committing themselves. It is surmised that the Republican State Committee will give formal consideration to the proposed amendment and that the individual leaders are waiting to see what the committee will do.

An interesting comment on the income tax amendment, as a Republican idea comes from Chairman James H. Vahey of the Democratic State Committee, who says:

"This proposed income tax amendment cannot be expounded as a Democratic idea or made a party issue. It is merely what the Democratic party has been talking. We have a form of income tax in Massachusetts which is good in theory, though, unfortunately, it is not enforced. The Democrats of this State have always contended that individual leaders are waiting to see what the committee will do.

Among the favorable opinions regarding an income tax by Bostonians in public life are the following:

Samuel J. Elder, delegate to the Republican National Convention: "The income tax is one of the fairest ways to collect the public revenue. It has worked well enough in England and in the United States, where there are men who make it. Nevertheless, they would pay it."

Courtenay Guild: "I believe that it is a good thing that Congress should have the power; I suppose the strongest, and only objection is that it is an inquisitorial measure."

Representative Samuel H. Mildram, House chairman of Taxation: "I rank heartily in favor of the income tax amendment. If we can have it without the inheritance tax. The income tax would be a uniform tax."

Alderman Matthew Hale: "I favor an income tax. It would work out that the larger a man's fortune, the larger amount he would have to pay in this sort of taxes. The rich ought to have their incomes taxed in proportion to their wealth."

City Collector Charles Brown: "I believe an income tax should be imposed. Everybody should bear a proportionate part of the nation's expenses, particularly those who have great wealth."

FAIR FOR ALL

"GOOD TIMES HERE," SAYS J. P. MORGAN, HOME FROM EUROPE

NEW YORK, July 22.—In the highest spirits, after his four months' stay abroad, J. Pierpont Morgan arrived on the Mauretania. As an evidence of his genial frame of mind he broke his universal rule and submitted to an interview on the ship as it steamed up the bay from Upper Quarantine. He discussed in the most good-natured manner financial questions that closely touch his interests here and in Europe.

"Mr. Morgan," said the AMERICAN reporter, "the tariff schedule is likely to place art on the free list if the present programme is carried out. In that case you could bring over your valuable collection free and Americans could have the pleasure of inspecting it."

"My London collection is pretty well cleaned as it is," returned Mr. Morgan.

"But think what pleasure it would give Americans to see it," persisted the interviewer.

"Well, you will see part of it next September, when I bring it over for the Hudson-Fulton exhibit," returned the financier, smiling.

"No, sir, I am not going to tell what pictures I will bring, and you must excuse them when they arrive here. I will make a surprise of it."

Hopes Clarke Will Return.

"Is it true that Casper Purdon Clarke may not return to the Metropolitan Museum of Art?" was asked. "It has been reported here that his year's leave of absence might mean his permanent retirement."

"His year's leave means that he was in ill-health and needed a rest," returned Mr. Morgan, emphatically. "If he is well when the year is up he will certainly return to his museum. I know of no different plan. I certainly hope that he will be able to come back."

"Art common has shown a great deal of activity," remarked one of a group who had surrounded Mr. Morgan by this time. "It closed at 71½ to-day," he added.

"You mean 70½," corrected Mr. Morgan smilingly, thereby relieving the fear being at sea did not interfere with his knowledge of steel prices.

"Is it true, Mr. Morgan, that the directors of the United States Steel Company have decided to increase the quarterly dividend?" asked the reporter.

"They have not said anything to me about it," he responded. "I don't know. Steel common seems to be holding its own pretty well."

Steel and Paris Bourse.

"There is much interest in the question of your efforts to have Steel common listed on the Paris Bourse. Can you tell us something about that?"

"That is in the hands of the French Government. The stock will be listed in time. I do not know, of course, what the change of ministers will do. There is to be a new Minister of Finance."

"What about the Chinese railway loan?" was asked.

"I know nothing about that. That matter is all being arranged on this side," he said.

"It is said, Mr. Morgan, that those having these negotiations in hand have been awaiting your return before closing them. They want your advice and perhaps your interest."

Might Not Have Come Home.

"Is that so?" he returned. "Well, they have not told me about it, and if I had known that perhaps I would not have come back just now," and Mr. Morgan smiled again.

"How are financial conditions on the other side?"

"Very good. Everything looks bright to me," he answered promptly. "I see no signs of trouble anywhere."

"It has been said that there was some financial weakness in England," was suggested.

"No, and not any," he responded. "Financiers in England and everywhere are good. The future looks well here and abroad. We are having a prosperous year. There is no sign of weakness in any way."

"Have you seen Mr. Harriman while abroad?" was asked.

"No. I did not see him, but I heard from him. Mr. Harriman is all right and there is no truth in the reports of his dangerous illness. He will come back in good health."

When the Majestic arrived off her North River pier she was met by a tugload of detectives. The Mail, which took off a quantity of mail for delivery.

Financier Cracks a Joke.

We used to say that the women caused all of the trouble and delay," said Mr. Morgan, confidingly, to a fellow traveler when he heard of this, "but now it is the men," a pun which caused those who heard him to chuckle.

Mr. Morgan remained in his steamer chair while the liner was being warped into her pier and then when most of the voyagers had descended to the pier he walked ashore.

This was after he had declared for duty art objects to the value of $30,000. These are treasures, some of them paintings, which he had been three years in Europe collecting. They were carried from the steamer and carefully laid on the pier.

ALL ROADS LEAD TO "WHITE CITY"

All roads in Worcester County lead to White City, the famous pleasure park on the shores of Lake Quinsigamond, these warm days, and the attractions of that great park rides are unexcelled. On Monday and Tuesday of each week the Sunday American Outing Committee will give each evening with free tickets for the park's many attractions. Next week the AMERICAN will publish absolutely free tickets to the mammoth theatre and the flying horses worth ten cents in either business and five half-price tickets to the park shows and wonderful rides. The tickets for the flying horses are worth a quarter. The half-fare tickets are for "Ily" Nichols's jungle, "Paradise," scenic railway, chutes and airships. In either case a coupon and two cents entitles you to a ride.

TODAY'S STOCK MARKETS: FINANCIAL NEWS

WALL ST. NEWS FOR INVESTORS

WALL STREET, New York, July 22.—No doubt London jobbers pressed the downward movement in Union by supplementing the real liquidation from there by liberal short sales. These gentlemen are heavily committed on the wrong side of Union Pacific. The rise in Union Pacific may be due to the technical position of the stock. The probabilities lean that way, for, beginning next month and running well into September, London's sales of calls on Union Pacific begin to mature, and these are very heavy.

$ $ $

Short commitments here are still of considerable volume, but there is something against this degeneracy element more formidable than the 10 per cent. dividend which is charged against the short orders. It is the treasury of the Union Pacific, the strongest of all railroad property in the world. In other words, the 10 per cent. dividends are not only justified by the earnings, but look meagre when the quick assets of the organization are examined.

The par value of the bonds in possession of the company aggregates $127,000,000 and of the stocks $250,000,000. The market value of the shares, according to the statement of the fiscal year ended June 30, 1908, was $580,753,526. At yesterday's quotations the value was approximately $725,000,000, or a total of $447,000,000, not counting the appreciation in bonds. The Londoners who cannot get the Union Pacific of 1897 out of their mind, should also remember that ten years ago the total gross income of the company was $25,000,000.

Just a year ago the Union Pacific had realized from its Northern Securities deal $45,586,783, and there were still on hand 33,786 shares of Great Northern Railway, 77,104 of Great Northern Ore certificates, 1,128 of Northern Pacific common, 18,018 Northern Pacific Railroad reversal, and 9,249 shares of Northern Securities Company stock; all of which to-day may be appraised at about $13,000,000. The only depreciation shown is in the Illinois Central holdings. These exhibit a loss of twenty points from the purchase price by the Union Pacific. The current rise on Illinois Central, therefore, finds an explanation in the probable desire of the management to make up the deficiency by the time the annual report for the year ended June 30, 1909, shall have been submitted.

$ $ $

In the year ended June 30, 1908, the Union Pacific's decrease in gross was less than 1 per cent., while the Pennsylvania's, to make a random comparison, was 12 per cent. Railroad men acknowledge that the Harriman position of the road is to be strengthened by the close alliance with Illinois Central, Baltimore & Ohio and New York Central. Under normal conditions the system may be reserved at a cost of 50 per cent. of gross earnings. Last Autumn it handled with ease a density twenty per year before, caused expensive congestion, and at the low rate of 45 per cent.

The selling of Reading, which had been one of the weakest stocks in the reaction, aroused much comment. It is believed by never particularly conspicuous in this stock the buying came from the room was mystified as to the real source of the sales. Inquiries did not succeed in developing any information, but the extraordinary way in which the stock was forced to the low level, resisting any attempt to carry it up to the extent of a point or a point and a half, or down beyond a corresponding figure, is to be considered remarkable for a stock of the market. Some traders say distribution is in progress, but others positively contend that it is accumulation that is under way.

The peculiar action of Atchison in the past week or so is now one of the market's puzzling features. The stock was very exceedingly hard, but has moved little, and then only on small transactions. Every time from time to time taken on lines, they have come back just the same," and Mr. Morgan smiled again.

"How are financial conditions on the other side?"

"Very good. Everything looks bright to me," he answered promptly. "I see no signs of trouble anywhere."

"It has been said that there was some financial weakness in England," was suggested.

"No, and not any," he responded. "Financiers in England and everywhere are good. The future looks well here and abroad. We are having a prosperous year. There is no sign of weakness in any way."

"Have you seen Mr. Harriman while abroad?" was asked.

"No, I did not see him, but I heard from him. Mr. Harriman is all right and there is no truth in the reports of his dangerous illness. He will come back in good health."

When the Majestic arrived off her North River pier she was met by a tugload of detectives. The Mail, which took off a quantity of mail for delivery.

Financier Cracks a Joke.

We used to say that the women caused all of the trouble and delay," said Mr. Morgan, confidingly, to a fellow traveler when he heard of this, "but now it is the men," a pun which caused those who heard him to chuckle.

Mr. Morgan remained in his steamer chair while the liner was being warped into her pier and then when most of the voyagers had descended to the pier he walked ashore.

This was after he had declared for duty art objects to the value of $30,000. These are treasures, some of them paintings, which he had been three years in Europe collecting. They were carried from the steamer and carefully laid on the pier.

YOUTH INVENTS BURGLAR STORY

LEOMINSTER, July 22.—A dispatch from Poughkeepsie says that Arthur V. Little, whose father is a member of the contracting firm of Long & Little, invented a robbery story on which he kept the police busy until he confessed that he invented the tale.

Little is a graduate of Cushing Academy, and went to Eastman's Business School in Poughkeepsie last Fall. He is twenty-two years old.

Little's claim found him bound in a cellar in his room and apparently unconscious, at 6 o'clock, when called and after a search of hard work got Little so he could tell what had been done to him. Little said he had been chloroformed by two burglars and robbed of about $40 and a valuable pin.

MADE DEFENDANT IN $7,500 SUITS

Two attachments aggregating $7,500 were filed in actions of tort against John J. McLaughlin of Malden by Mary Elizabeth Gorman and Samuel Gorman of Melrose in the Superior Court at East Cambridge to-day. The woman sues for $5,000 and the man for $2,500. The action is brought through the office of Attorney Dunlap, Hall & Dow of No. 53a Main street, Boston. John T. Burns of Newton, through the office of Attorney J. C. Fitz, filed to-day in the same court an attachment of $1,000 against Peter B. Howard of Newton in an action of tort.

MINING STOCKS STRONG TODAY

STATE STREET, July 22.—Mining stocks were buoyant this forenoon and the market for them was broad and comparatively active. Little by little the favorable condition of the metal market is becoming known. Large sales of copper for future delivery are cleaning up the surplus supplies and creating enthusiasm in the share market. As yet the latter is in the incipient state.

Amalgamated sold ex dividend in this market, but rose to 83 on a fair amount of trading. Steel ran off a point to 70⅝. North Butte rose 1¾ to 53⅞, with fractional setback, and Superior Copper rose 1⅞ to 48 on reports that the company was likely to increase the stamping facilities. This advance proved a stimulating factor in Lake stocks which stiffened a point to 23⅝. Isle Royale rose to 26 and Arizona Commercial rose 1⅜ to 43 on inside buying. East Butte touched 13. Consolidated buying of American Woolen rights is reported around 18 cents.

On the Curb Rhode Island Coal was the strong and active feature, selling up to 8. Vulture was also active around 7¼.

N. Y. CENTRAL STOCK LEADER

By T. C. SHOTWELL.

NEW YORK, July 22.—A strong and active stock market in Wall street to-day reflected the financial world to enthusiasm over the return of J. P. Morgan from Europe. Gains averaging a point were recorded throughout the list, under the leadership of New York Central, which rose 1⅝ points in the first half hour of trading.

Union Pacific also displayed strength and advanced one point, while Reading gained 1¼ points. Southern Pacific, Steel shares and Rock Island issues were other stocks to make fractional gains.

Renewed improvement in the copper metal trade was reflected in a demand on the copper shares. Amalgamated Copper sold ex-dividend one-half of one per cent., but by the end of the first hour of the session it had recovered all that and an additional 1⅛ point. Anaconda was also strong and gained 1⅝ points.

American Ice was the leader in the group of specialties with an advance of over 1 point to 41⅛. American Locomotive, American Car and Foundry and American Beet Sugar were other issues to show strength.

American shares were strong in London with fractional gains. Exceptions to the general rule, however, were found in Steel common and Steel preferred, which were heavy.

Trading was dull and prices were not materially changed on the New York curb market.

Women with Faces Cut Open and Bleeding—Workmen and Police Fight—Steel Stocks Rising

Striking Contrast and Interesting Landmark in Industrial Development

Copyright, 1909, by American Journal-Examiner

A thousand millions of dollars of watered stock were pumped into the Steel Trust. Common stock of the Steel Trust is simply gas. It isn't even water. And in the past few days it has been selling at about $72 a share.

Preferred stock of the Steel Trust is nothing but water. It pays 7 per cent dividends and has been selling above $127 a share.

Property that cost the trust organizers about four hundred millions is bonded and stocked, in one way or another, for a thousand millions more.

The stock goes up constantly, the dividends are to be increased—as soon as the tariff question is out of the way—so that the men who now demand high protection may settle that question before they declare bigger profits.

Prices of all the stocks go up, dividends are to go up, so they say, THE PAY OF THE WORKMEN IS TO GO DOWN, AND THE UNIONS ARE TO BE BROKEN UP—that's the programme now.

Those that own stock in this company, men that never made any steel, never sweated or toiled in a mill, are delighted as their profits increase.

And the workmen are striking for recognition of their union and their rights. They are evicted from their homes in thousands, their wives are described in news reports as fighting to retain possession of the little homes where they have brought up the children.

Scabs are rushed in to take the places of regular workmen. A local official of the Steel Trust boasts proudly: "We'll win this strike if we have to wade in blood." Men are shot, killed and wounded on both sides daily.

But this is not an editorial intended to advocate any side of this labor discussion. There isn't very much to discuss just now in union labor. The workmen voted for what they are getting, so evidently they wanted it. The great majority of Steel Trust workers work hard for twelve hours a day, they are worn out quickly and soon replaced BY FREE RAW LABOR FROM ABROAD. Theres' no duty on labor.

The union men themselves got tired of paying dues in the good times and let their unions go to pieces more or less. Their union leaders, such men as Gompers and others, joined August Belmont and other professional union-destroyers, in a pink tea celebration called the Civic Federation.

Since the Civic Federation, with its gay dinners, its August Belmont, the union-breaker, and others of his kind, swallowed up the principal union leaders, THERE HASN'T BEEN A STRIKE OF ANY IMPORTANCE WON IN THE UNITED STATES.

It's hardly worth while to talk about unions and union men and union wages, when the union leaders sit dow at table with Belmont or go traveling abroad with his money in their pockets, "to investigate municipal ownership," if you please, when union workmen quit the unions to save dues, and when they vote by an overwhelming majority for government by the trusts.

The interesting thing, really, is to consider how this civilization will strike the future historian. That historian will admire the cunning and determination of the trust leader who can send his stocks sky-rocketing in Wall Street while the workmen are shot down on the works, because they strike to maintain a union, while their wives and children are kicked out of the houses that they have lived in, HOUSES BUILT BY MONEY TAKEN FROM THEIR EARNINGS.

Interesting contrast—it speaks well for the intelligence, the united determination of the trust managers and pretty badly for the workmen and THEIR power of union.

Jacob Schiff's Advice to the Jews

Well Meant, but Not Entirely Sound, in Our Opinion

Copyright, 1909, by American Journal-Examiner

Jacob Schiff is, beyond question, "a good Jew." He sticks to his people, he spends a great part of his large fortune helping them, and he rebukes ignorant and jealous race-hatred by spending his money also for those of a different faith or a different race, and spending it freely.

We believe that Mr. Schiff makes a mistake when he advises the Jews to scatter all over the United States, and not to accumulate in the big cities of the East.

Mr. Schiff regrets the fact that there are nearly a million Jews in Greater New York—more than there ever were in Palestine. We think that Mr. Schiff is wrong.

There is power in numbers. Prejudice, persecution and stupid religious hatred are best put down BY POWER. It's a good thing that there are so many Jews in New York, Boston and other Eastern cities. They can vote together, and they can discourage the narrow bigot who would persecute them if he dared, and the jealous, incompetent who hates their success.

Scattered all over the country in thin numbers, the Jews could not make their influence felt. In New York City just now the Immigration Department is discriminating against Jews openly and shamefully. The Jews can stop that with their votes in New York the next time they have a chance, and we suppose that they will do it. They could not stop it, could not create any impression if they were widely scattered.

In time the Jews and all the various other races of men will be scattered over the world, and, what is more, they will all be mixed up into one race, one homogeneous human race that will have retained the best in each of the different races and rejected the worst.

Just at present we are in a day of ignorant struggle and persecution. Those that are numerous in one place have the best chance of survival. The great gathering of Jews in New York and Boston is a good thing for Jews, it compels attention to their demands, and, incidentally, it is a good thing for the whole people, for it defeats and makes hopeless the persistent attempt that exists in certain quarters to destroy the public school system and do away with the wise American doctrine of separation between church and state, separation between school and religion.

Some may say that the Jews will become too numerous and too powerful. They won't unless they prove themselves the abler race, and if they prove themselves abler, then they ought to have the power.

THE faults and the frictions of our times have their grounds not in men's heads, but in their hearts. It is strange that this fact is so constantly forgotten, and that in consequence of forgetting it people who write and lecture about the social and economic infirmities of the day go about trying to reason men into better and sweeter relations with each other.

There is intellect enough and philosophy enough in this world to unite a paradise out of it. So far as that is concerned there is as much intelligence as is required and considerable to spare.

But while people are growing brighter, frictions are becoming severer. Going to school does not take the fight out of the heart of a nation nor the spirit of strife and competition out of the soul of an individual.

Sharpening a knife or sharpening a man only increases its competency to cut and its liability to cut.

Domestic animals generally get along quietly and peaceably enough together; it is the lions, tigers and hyenas that growl at one another and fling themselves at one another's throats. Which ought certainly to teach us that the way to make human tigers and rhinoceroses lie down together will be by a process of domestication.

Character Depends Upon Soil It Comes From.

Now, unfortunately, schooling does not domesticate. Education in itself considered is an unregenerate commodity.

The brightest boys in school are the most troublesome. Keenness means capacity for mischief.

Society to-day is full of a host of very brainy men who have money, and is also full of a host of very brainy men who have not money, but brain does not bridge the chasm by which these two mutually antagonistic hosts are separated. This is unfortunate, for while education is comparatively cheap, it costs a great deal to acquire that sort of stuff that enables two people of different social or different economic conditions to be sympathetic.

The roots of the difficulty are in people, not in crops, nor in tariff, nor in social conditions, monetary conditions nor any conditions, but in themselves.

Our ancestors away back in the unwritten and undiscovered past went on all fours; at least, that is the conviction toward which the world's scientific opinion is settling and is already pretty well settled.

The conviction is to be valued not only for its originality, but for the light which it sheds on practical questions of individual and social life. Heredity counts. Ancestry tells.

A tree even depends for its character upon the seed it came out of and the soil in which it is rooted.

If, therefore, our ancestors some way back were quadrupedal we must expect to be ourselves infected to some degree with quadrupedal dispositions; for although we have gotten off from the original four feet and move about on two, yet setting an animal up on end end instead of leaving him to go horizontally does not necessarily change altogether his temperament, and it has not altogether changed ours.

The brute instincts are still rather dominant with us, and one of the quite characteristic instincts of the brute which has come down to us as an hereditary legacy from our forefathers away back is for it to get what it can and to keep what it gets.

It is just as natural for us to try to lay our hands on whatever is in sight as it is for a dog or a wolf to lay his paws on whatever is in sight.

Not to be selfish is unnatural. It is counter to the ordinance of our inherited constitution. And it is a feature of the race. It is so with men who have accumulated a great deal of property, and it is just as much so with those who have accumulated little or none.

Rest of Badness Lies in Having Big Opportunities

It is customary to inveigh loudly against the greed of the capitalists, but their greed is no different from that of the rest of people, only it is more conspicuous because they have more to be greedy with, and so make a larger number of people suffer from it. But the probability is that any given man will be just as greedy with his own dollar or hundred dollars as the wealthier one will be with his thousand or million. That does not at all excuse the capitalist for his greed and for his disposition to use his money only in his own interest; nor is it to deny that he does a great deal more harm with his mercenary disposition than any poor man can with his.

Our contention is simply that this kind of wolfishness is natural to the race and instinctively inheres in man simply for the reason that he is man. So that if a poor man, who has all his life been berating the capitalists, were suddenly to become heir to a big fortune the chances are that he would begin immediately to display the same spirit as that against which he had been vituperating.

We none of us realise how hard we are till we have a big opportunity to be bad. One of our most common and unrepentance virtues is to be generous with what we do not possess.

LETTERS FROM AMERICAN READERS

AMERICA'S "25 MOST NOTABLE"

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

In view of the timely interest which is aroused in the public press in the selection of the "twenty-five greatest Americans" to be portrayed by the Princess Levoff-Perlogky, I would suggest the following list:

In literature and art: (1) Mark Twain, (2) Edwin Markham, (3) Jack London, (4) Charles Dana Gibson. In politics: (5) Oscar Straus, (6) Senator LaFollette, (7) William Jennings Bryan, (8) William Howard Taft, (9) Theodore Roosevelt. In science and invention: (10) Luther Burbank, (11) Thomas Edison. In educational work: (12) Professor Lawrence Lowell, (13) Dr. C. W. Eliot, (14) Elbert Hubbard. In philanthropy: (15) Nathan Straus, (16) Andrew Carnegie. In theatrical life: (17) Oscar Hammerstein, (18) David Belasco, (19) Lilian Russell. In reform movements: (20) Julia Ward Howe, (21) Jane Addams, (22) Robert Hunter, (23) A. T. Phelps Stokes, (24) Eugene V. Debs, (25) Gaylord Wilshire.

JASPER RUSTIGIAN.

APPLAUDS TAFT'S STAND.

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

We should be very thankful because of the stand that President Taft is taking in regard to the tariff.

The people in the whole and not any special interests should be considered, and the promise of a revision should be adhered to.

It is comforting to have such statesmanship.

BISMARK ARMS - ISN'T THAT THE HOTEL THE MILLIONBUCK GIRLS SAID THEY WERE GOING TO STOP AT? HOW MUCH DOUGH HAVE WE? OUR 2 SALARIES COME TO $50. AND HERE'S 3 BUCKS BESIDES. WE'LL HIRE A CHEAP ROOM, AND THAT'LL GIVE US MORE TO SPEND ON THE GIRLS.
WE OUGHT TO GIVE THEM A GOOD TIME WITH ALL THIS MONEY HERE'S $2.35 MORE
1
GIVE US A DOLLAR ROOM PLEASE.
ALL TAKEN SIR. HERE'S ONE FOR $10. IT'S THE ONLY ONE VACANT AT PRESENT
GEE! IT'S PRETTY STIFF. BUT WE'LL HAVE TO TAKE IT FOR TO-NIGHT ANYHOW, AND PERHAPS TO-MORROW THERE MAY BE A CHEAPER ONE LEFT VACANT.
2
WHY HELLO MISS MILLIONBUCKS. WE HEARD YOU WERE AT ATLANTIC CITY. SAY GIRLS WE'LL BLOW YOU TO A GOOD TIME. WHAT SHALL IT BE - TOWN ABOUT AN AUTO RIDE, MISS DOROTHY?
PERHAPS YOU WOULD LIKE TO TAKE IN THE MATINEE MISS ETHEL.
3
WE CERTAINLY GAVE THEM A GOOD TIME, BUT WE BLEW IN EVERY SOU TO DO IT. HAVE THE GIRLS RETIRED? SAY, WHAT ARE WE GOING TO DO FOR SLEEPING QUARTERS. WE CAN'T STOP HERE.
THE ONLY THING I SEE WE CAN DO, IS TO SLEEP DOWN ON THE PIER. GOOD THING WE BOUGHT RETURN TICKETS. GEE! BUT DON'T THE MONEY GO FAST DOWN HERE.
4
ISN'T IT LOVELY TO WATCH THE SUNRISE.
S'S'SH? IT'S THE HALL ROOM BOYS. THEY'VE BEEN SLEEPING THERE ALL NIGHT. DON'T LET THEM SEE US.
COME PERC, WAKE UP! WE MUST GET BACK TO THE HOTEL BEFORE THE GIRLS COME DOWN S'S. THEY WON'T GET WISE.
5
GOOD MORNING BOYS. DID YOU SLEEP WELL?
GOOD MORNING MISS MILLIONBUCKS. SOUND AS A TOP. SUCH GRAND SEA AIR. WHY THE OCEAN BREEZES BLEW IN OUR WINDOWS SO, IT SEEMED AS IF WE WERE SLEEPING OUT IN THE OPEN.
TEE HEE!
THOUGH IT WAS A TRIFLE COOL TOWARDS MORNING, AND I HAD TO PUT ON AN EXTRA BLANKET.
